WILSON CALLS OUT THE NATIONAL GUARD

Militia of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona Ordered Out For Duty as a Border Guard—First Step Toward Sending More Troops Into Mexico Taken by the President.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 9.—The first step toward complete intervention in Mexico should Carranza force a break was taken today. President Wilson issued an order calling into active service "For duty as a border guard" the National Guard of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. In an official statement issued with the announcement that the militia had been called on for active service Secretary of War Baker stated that the outbreak in the Big Bend district of the Rio Grande and the danger of other outbreaks made it imperative that more troops be called into service.

Simultaneous with the order sending the militia to the border, the war department ordered to the front practically all of the infantry remaining in the United States. The militia forces of the three states mentioned will add four thousand men to Funston's command and in addition he will get some three thousand regulars as follows:

The 20th infantry from Plattsburgh, N. Y.
The 3d infantry from Madison Barracks and Oswego, N. Y.
Two battalions of the 21st infantry from Vancouver Barracks and San Diego.
Two battalions of the 14th infantry from Fort Lawton, Wash.

The statement of Secretary Baker was as follows:
"The outbreak in the Big Bend district of the Rio Grande has so far further emphasized the danger of similar occurrences along our long border that the president has called out the militia of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas and directed them to report to General Funston, who will assign them stations along the border for patrol duty."

In addition to that two additional regiments of regular infantry have been ordered to proceed to the border, and such further arrangements will be made as are necessary for the complete security of the people of the United States against raids of this character."

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen May 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Rufus LeFever and son Oswald, of Brooklyn are "guests" of Mrs. LeFever's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Neher on Bayard street.

Thomas Tucker of Tilden street purchased a seven passenger Ford car from New York parties.

Miss Ina Shaw, who has been the guest of friends in Rhinebeck, returned to her home on Hiasbrouck street Monday.

Mr. Joseph Drinkle of Hudson street spent Monday with her daughter Mrs. Charles Osterhoudt in Poughkeepsie.

Dr. Louis Albert Banks, who is to speak at the Methodist Church, May 11, at 8 p. m., on the subject of National Prohibition, is the author of more volumes than any man now living. Nevertheless, though he has taken time to write more than 50 books he is one of the most active men engaged in platform work in the United States. His address in Port Ewen will bear especially upon the effects now being made in connection to obtain submission of a prohibition amendment to the national constitutional, and will touch pointedly upon what New York congressmen and New York voters ought to do about it. Dr. Banks is a big man in every sense of the word and is convincing in his discussion of public issues.

The following officers were elected at school district No. 1: E. W. Hatcher, trustee for three years; Mrs. Lucy Bishop, collector.

The members of the B. E. B. are very anxious that you bear in mind their "Penny Social" Friday evening in the Methodist Chapel. An entertainment is to be given. Games will be played, and a jolly time awaits you all.

Mrs. Matilda J. Major, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Canfield, in Marlborough, has returned to her home on Schryver street.

CANAL TERMINAL AND A CITY PARK

Two Public Uses Proposed for Abandoned Property of Cement Company by Calvin Tomkins Before Chamber of Commerce—Waterfront Great Asset for Greater City. A public park in Poughkeepsie for which the city need not pay a cent and the eventual transformation of a 1,000 foot section of waterfront on the north shore of Rondout creek into a barge canal terminal by the state were two pictures painted in the imaginations of Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night at city hall by former Dock Commissioner Calvin Tomkins of New York, who told the gathering of the hopes of the Newark Line and Cement Company in the matter of the sale of its property here. The Chamber of Commerce, First Vice President William C. Kingman presiding in the temporary absence of President Leighton, endorsed Mr. Tomkins' idea and directed the transportation committee to co-operate with him and with Mayor Canfield and the common council to bring the matter to the attention of the state.

In opening his remarks, Mr. Tomkins pointed to the useless state of the present property of the cement company which he described as comprising a tract including the hill on the west side of Rondout, the flat where the old cement mill stood, the Lindsey residence, and a considerable body of property on Delaware avenue. "This last piece the company does not desire to dispose of at the present time."

That waterfront transportation is going to spell the industrial development of many cities within the next decade is the belief of Mr. Tomkins, and he pointed out the results of the canalization of the Rhine and other rivers in Germany where water-borne traffic is a great factor in keeping down production costs. Cheaper power and cheaper transportation were available on the company's site here, he declared, and he urged appropriate action so that a section of waterfront, some 600 or 700 feet in length, be reserved for public use.

As for the old mill site, he placed that at the chamber's disposal and hoped that eventually an industry might be located there. On the hill, he said, it was expected that ultimately it would be divided into lots and sold off, it being the intention to get a company formed for that purpose. On the brow of the hill a section would be reserved and with the sides and bottom of the hill would be turned over to the city for a park. Its advantages for such purpose were pointed out by the speaker who believed that the city could handle the park project with little expense. A road with sewer and water connections would be necessary for the realty development on the main part of the hill.

Reservation of the waterfront was the main point, however, and it found favor with his hearers. Preliminary work of the city for a canal terminal and the work of the Circles in behalf of the B. E. B. Blind Relief Fund outlined by Secretary Canfield. Commencing with this week contribution boxes and placards are being placed in the uptown and downtown banks and in other public places and the proceeds forwarded to the Relief Fund, whose headquarters are at 590 Fifth avenue, New York. While the Circles of Mercy have been very busily engaged in making surgical dressings the past year, its members decided that this additional work could be undertaken and $25 was voted toward the fund. The co-operation of the Chamber members individually is asked for this relief work and the public is also invited to contribute.

Downtown Won.
Monday evening a picked team from each end of the city played at volleyball and as a result the downtown men defeated the uptown men three straight games by a score of 21 to 7; 21 to 6; and 21 to 15.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church will hold a thimble social at the home of Mrs. W. A. Longyear, No. 33 Eldersdorf street, on Wednesday afternoon.

CYMRIC SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

White Star Freighter Was Laden With War Supplies and War Orders From the Admiralty—All on Board Saved.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, May 9.—The White Star express freighter Cymric, which was torpedoed by a German submarine off the Irish coast on Monday afternoon, sank this morning.

Before news of the sinking of the 13,000 ton freighter was received it had been reported that the disabled vessel was on her way to an Irish port.

A Lloyd's despatch received just before noon stated that all on board the Cymric had been saved.

The White Star freighter, which was under orders from the British Admiralty and carried a cargo of war supplies estimated to be worth nearly a million dollars, was supposed to be under the convoy of a warship because of the importance and value of her cargo.

It was regarded as possible that the attack might have been made in the presence of an English man-of-war.

The belief here at the time news of the sinking of the ship was received was that there was no American citizen on board.

The ship carried a crew of 110 men and, in addition, five English seamen from another ship who were returning from New York because of sickness.

The Cymric, which sailed from New York on April 29, was commanded by Captain F. E. Beadnell and carried among other articles the following: Eight cases of firearms, 13 cases of guns, 80 cases of rifles, 820 cases of gun covers, 400 reels of barbed wire, 11,049 cases of empty shells, 6 cases of bayonets, 231 automobiles, 590 cases of primers, 2,163 cases of forgings, 40 cases of aeroplane parts, 107 cases of copper tubes, 220 cases of fuse heads, 8,600 cases of cartridges, lubricating oils and agricultural machinery.

Word was anxiously awaited as to the fate of members of the crew. Early dispatches relating to the Cymric were meager and did not say whether the explosion had killed and wounded any of those on board.

The freighter evidently remained afloat about 12 hours after the explosion had occurred which would have given time for escape from the sinking vessel.

It was recalled that the British steamer Industry was sunk 120 miles west of the Irish coast by a German submarine and in maritime circles the opinion was expressed that the same under water boat which destroyed the Industry sank the Cymric.

Although the White Star line stated that the attack upon the Cymric was made at noon the Queenstown correspondent of Lloyd's telegraphed that the freighter was torpedoed at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The Queenstown telegram read: "The Cymric, bound from New York to Liverpool, was torpedoed at four o'clock Monday afternoon. Assistance was sent. The Cymric sank at 3 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday. A wireless message from the Dutch steamer Grotius, via Valentia, stated that all on board the Cymric were saved."

For Blind Relief Fund.
A communication from Mrs. Augusta V. D. Hutton, chairman of the Circles of Mercy, was read before the Chamber of Commerce Monday night and the work of the Circles in behalf of the B. E. B. Blind Relief Fund outlined by Secretary Canfield.

Commencing with this week contribution boxes and placards are being placed in the uptown and downtown banks and in other public places and the proceeds forwarded to the Relief Fund, whose headquarters are at 590 Fifth avenue, New York. ## AMERICANS WARNED NAVIGATION NOTES TO LEAVE MEXICO ALONG CREEK FRONT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
El Paso, Tex., May 9.—It was reported here today that local representatives of the state department had ordered all consular agents throughout Mexico to warn Americans to get out of that country with the least possible delay. A hitch has apparently developed in the negotiations here between General Alvaro Obregon and General Hugh L. Scott. What the outcome will be cannot be foreseen by the American military authorities at present but they are making all necessary preparations.

Tension on the border became acute again as a result of rumors that General Obregon had warned General Scott that Carranzista troops had taken up positions where they would be able to prevent any more American troops crossing the border.

These rumors, coupled with the plans for sending troops out of the Big Bend district in pursuit of the Mexicans who raided American territory and killed American troops, indicated that if a break were to come it could not be long delayed.

Neither General Scott nor General Funston would comment this morning on the latest developments, but it became known that a full report had been sent to Washington. It is understood that part of the National Guard forces be called out to patrol the border.

It is known that no order has been sent to stop the two troops of cavalry which left Marathon yesterday to pick up the trail of the marauding Mexicans in the Big Bend country. Major Langhorne, their commander, had received specific instructions before he left Marathon.

Ahead of Major Langhorne is a civilian posse headed by Sheriff Watson. The members of the posse have declared their intention of wiping out the band of Mexicans who crossed the border. Their wrath has been increased by news that a little American colony at Terlingua, about 80 miles from the border, is besieged by another Mexican band. The posse cannot be stopped by any diplomatic ruse.

The diplomatic maze that developed when General Obregon proposed certain changes in the first tentative agreement which he said had been suggested by First Chief Carranza was still further tangled today, if the conflicting reports circulated on the border were to be credited.

One, indeed, said that all negotiations were at an end and that Obregon was preparing to return southward to take the field. Another was that General Scott had demanded acceptance or rejection of the original agreement within 24 hours.

U. S. REPLY TO GERMAN NOTE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 9.—The United States considers the submarine issue with Germany closed. It will be reopened only if the pledges accepted by this government are violated or Germany says that they are withdrawn because of the rejection of the suggestions that they hinged on action by Great Britain. There still remains the readjustment of damages for American lives lost through illegal operation of submarines. But this is a matter which Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, has full authority to negotiate.

In this connection officials said that even though it should develop that some of the recent attacks upon merchant vessels, including the White Star liner Cymric, were in violation of the German orders they could not be considered by the United States as a violation of the pledges already made. In no instance within the last week have American interests suffered and in the case of the Cymric in addition to there being no Americans on board, her cargo consisted entirely of munitions.

There was a general feeling among officials today that Germany will let the submarine situation rest with the Lansing note. It is known that this will be the advice of Ambassador von Bernstorff. He takes the position that there have been too many notes heretofore and that if permitted he and Secretary Lansing could have reached the conclusions just arrived at by informal conferences. The ambassador, it is understood, does not look for an early reply to the Lansing note.

Should Germany, however, do the unexpected and declare that the demand for relief from the British blockade is coupled with the new orders under which submarine commanders are operating, there will be nothing left for the United States to do but to recall Ambassador Gerard.

The Reply to Berlin.
The American ambassador in Berlin was instructed by cablegram to deliver the following reply to Germany's note to the German minister of foreign affairs:

The note of the Imperial German Government under date of May 4, 1916, has received careful consideration by the government of the United States.

It is especially regrettable that the purpose of the Imperial Government as to the future, that it is prepared to do its utmost to confine the operations of the war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents" and that it is determined to impose upon all its commanders at sea the limitations of the recognized rules of international law upon which the government of the United States has insisted.

Throughout the months which have elapsed since the Imperial Government announced on February 4, 1915, its submarine policy, now happily abandoned, the government of the United States has been constantly guided and restrained by motives of friendship in its patient efforts to bring to an amicable settlement the critical questions arising from that policy.

Accepting the Imperial Government's declaration of its abandonment of the policy which has so seriously menaced the good relations between the two countries, the government of the United States will rely upon a scrupulous execution hereafter of the new altered policy of the Imperial Government, such as will remove the principal danger to an interruption of the good relations existing between the United States and Germany.

The government of the United States feels it necessary to state that it takes it for granted that the Imperial German Government does not intend to imply that the maintenance of its newly announced policy is in any way contingent upon the course or result of diplomatic negotiations between the government of the United States and any other belligerent government, notwithstanding the fact that certain passages in the Imperial Government's note of the fourth instant might appear to be susceptible of that construction.

In order, however, to avoid any misunderstanding the government of the United States notifies the Imperial Government that it cannot for a moment entertain much less discuss, a suggestion that respect by German naval authorities for the rights of citizens of the United States upon the high seas should in any way or in the slightest degree be made contingent upon the conduct of any other government affecting the rights of neutrals and non-combatants.

Responsibility in such matters is single, not joint; absolute, not relative.

INTERVENTION SEEMS NEARER

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 9.—General American intervention daily looms larger as the inevitable solution of the Mexican situation. This opinion was freely expressed today by officials who declare that only chaos and uncertainty can result from continued operation of American forces in Mexico with no definite understanding between Washington and Mexico City as to the plan and scope of the American campaign now being conducted south of the Rio Grande.

With General S. Scott and Funston in futile conference with General Obregon on the Mexico border endeavoring to draft a protocol to define the American operations, a new and graver situation has arisen by the late massacre in the Big Bend country, from all present evidences, perpetrated by Carranza's own followers. Now chaos exists as to the relations between Carranza's de facto government and the Washington administration. While military officials of the two governments are negotiating without results over the status of the expedition which crossed into Mexico two months ago, a second expedition already has been started across the Rio Grande to avenge the Big Bend massacre. Carranza has said that he will not permit the expedition an unmolested passage.

Even should an arrangement finally be reached by which Carranza will consent to the presence of these troops in Mexico, in the opinion of officials this will only temporarily postpone the day when the United States through its army must take complete control over the country to the south. General Funston has not lost sight of this outstanding fact. While he and General Scott have been parleying with Minister Obregon, Funston has quietly been redressing his forces. They now are drawn up in such formations that they can be held in their present positions indefinitely. Should Carranza's soldiers decide to make an offensive they would find that General Pershing's column is not unprepared. The present disposition of all of the units of the American expedition has been communicated to Washington in reports from General Funston, which are withheld at the war department. Funston likewise has informed the department of the strength and disposition of the Carranza forces. The Americans are well armed and provisioned and ready for a fight. If Carranza's commanders, who openly defy his authority, take the offensive, as they have repeatedly threatened to do, it will not take the American commanders long to complete plans for a real campaign.

First off the Coast Artillery would be turned into infantry, upwards of 5,000 strong, and selected units from crack National Guard regiments then would be impressed for border patrol duty.

U. S. D. MAY CHARGE HIGHER MILEAGE
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, May 9.—The up-state public service commission today granted to the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company permission to charge 2.5 cents per mile for its mileage books, under a decision of the court of appeals recently handed down. This is one-tenth of a cent below the rate paid for straight tickets on the line.

The New York Central has been compelled by the commission to restore the sale of 500-mile books. These were discontinued some time ago as the old New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company was organized prior to the enactment of the section of the railroad law requiring mileage books to be issued. It could not be compelled to issue them.

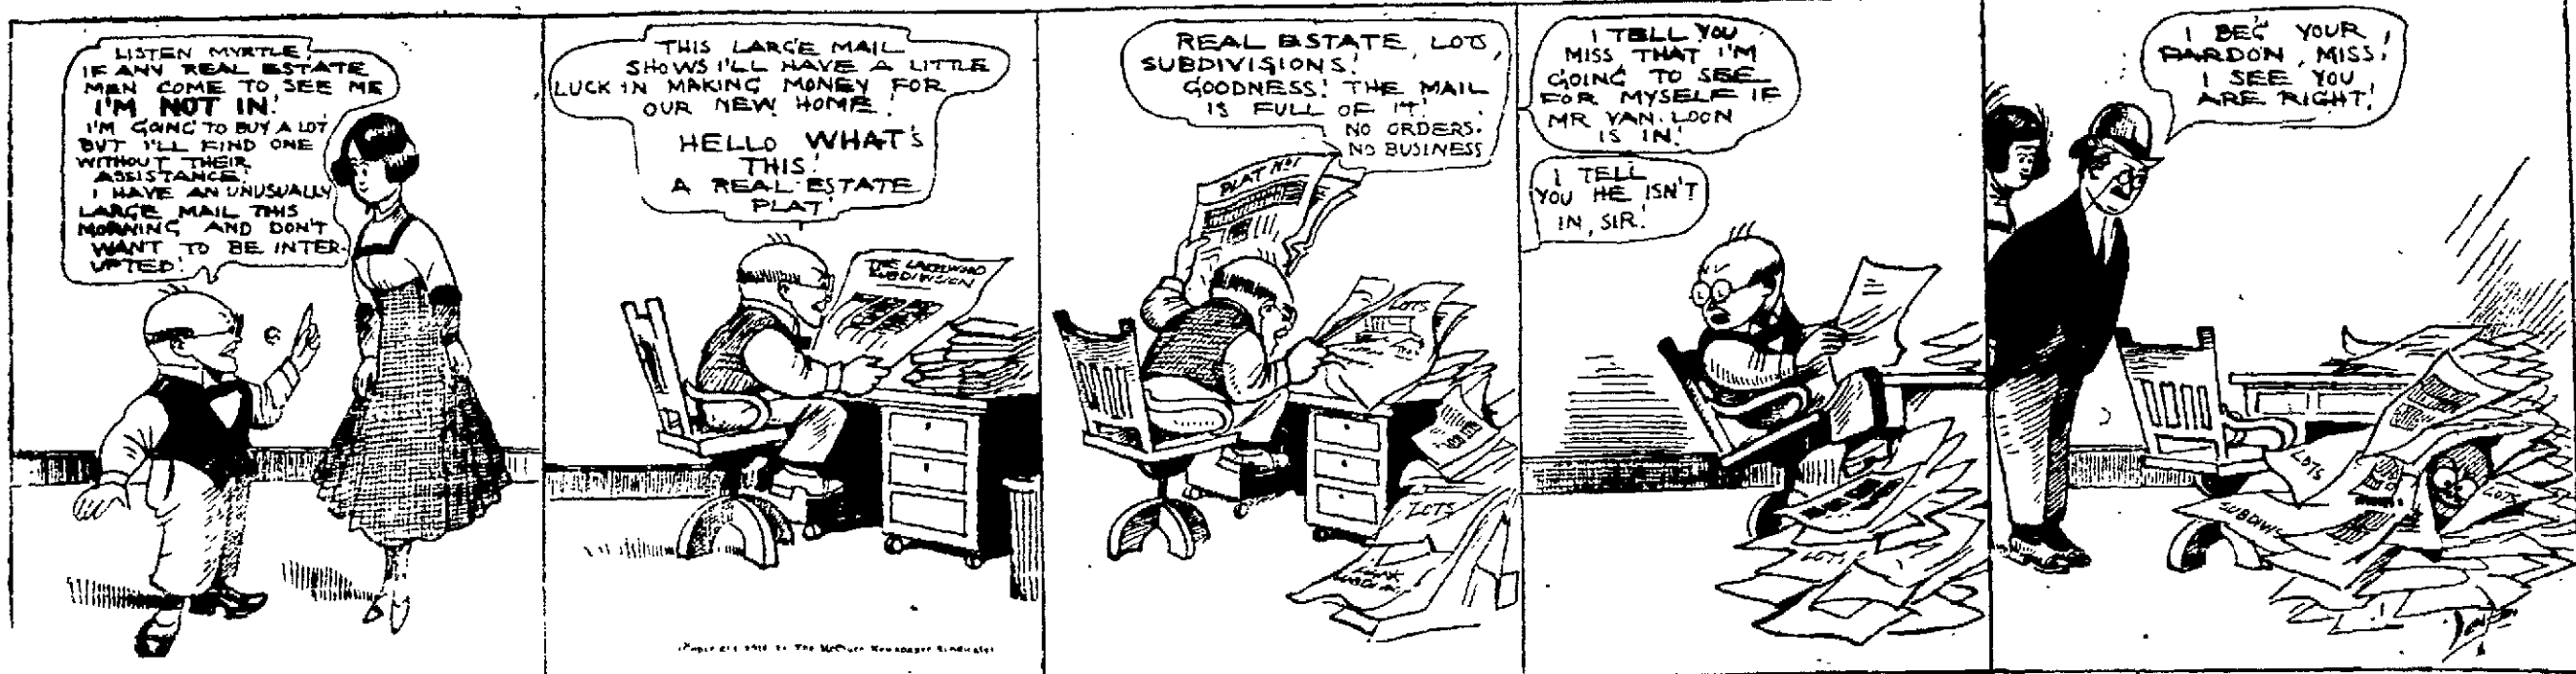

The present New York Central Railroad Company, however, organized but last year, has been held by the commission to come within this law, and the railroad has acceded to the demand of the commission that it issue 500-mile books good until used.

VETERAN DERIDES WAR FABLES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, May 9.—Writing in the "Revue" a French captain who has been at the front since the first day of the war almost fiercely attacks the legends that have been spread by war writers among the people of France.

"The French press has made a practice of picturing the conditions at the front in glowing, alluring colors," the captain says. "Our people have been told times and again of the alleged joyous life of the soldiers and of the comforts and luxury created by their inventive genius in the shelters behind the trenches.

"These legends have created an entirely false impression. The citizen at home regards the 'poilu' as a kind of an unconquerable demi-god, who enjoys the bloody work he performs and in his shelters has the comforts of a millionaire's club after his daily job of killing 'Boches.' Every soldier is supposed to be a super-human without faults and without any thought of himself, moved solely by the spirit of patriotism and self sacrifice.

"All of these stories are far from the truth. Life at the front is anything but a round of pleasure. In the supposedly luxurious shelters the soldiers often suffer from cold and moisture and the trenches are mostly half filled with water. The 'poilu' although always willing to suffer and sacrifice himself, is no half-god.

"His hardships and the continuous dangers have made him an egotist. The war has killed all compassion and the sufferings of the individual soldiers are so great that the men have no time to shed tears over the misfortune of others.

"Just as foolish and dangerous as the legends about the 'poilu' are those about the 'Boche'.

"The ragged, starving, stupid, cruel and cowardly German soldier who is said to run away from every danger, is purely a product of the fancy of our war writers.

"There would be no glory in defeating such an enemy. The German army contains many highly intelligent, courageous and even noble, big-hearted men and its equipment and organization are far better than we thought when the conflict began.

"We will defeat the enemy in the end because our soldiers are more capable and we excel in technical resources, but the struggle will be hard and long.

"There is no use in deceiving the nation with fairy tales. The glorious deeds of our army and the final victory will only be fully appreciated if the people know the true conditions."

All things come to him who waits. But here's a rule that's slicker. The man who goes for what he wants will get it all the quicker.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Brown a cupful of well washed rice in two tablespoonfuls of butter, then add a small onion cut in shreds; stir and cook until the onion is slightly browned; add two cupfuls of hot broth, half a teaspoonful of salt and a dash of paprika; cook until tender, adding more broth as it is needed.

Calf's Liver on Casserole.—Fry five slices of fat salt pork until brown. Add to the hot fat one dozen potato balls, one dozen carrot balls, one stalk of celery, six onions sliced. Cook very slowly for ten minutes, then place in the casserole. Cut in thin slices a liver and lay it on top of the vegetables. Season with salt and pepper, add a pint of boiling water and a tablespoonful of kitchen bouquet. Cool one hour.

Goette.—Boil two pounds of flank beef until tender, then put it through the meat grinder. Put into the liquid left from boiling the meat one pound of coarse oatmeal; cook thirty minutes then mix it with the meat; season with pepper and salt and pour into a mold to cool. Cut in slices and fry brown. This is a dish similar to scrapple and is served with or without sirup.

Potato Pancakes.—Peel and grate six potatoes after they have soaked in cold water two hours. Mix with a grated onion, two eggs, half a teaspoonful of baking powder and enough flour to make a thin batter. Fry the cakes until brown.

Philadelphia Scapple.—Cook a pig's head in boiling water until the flesh slips from the bones; chop the meat fine. Remove the fat from the liquid when cold and reheat the liquid to the boiling point, adding a teaspoonful of salt for each quart of liquid with pepper to taste; sift in carefully, stirring constantly, cornmeal, to the consistency of mush. Let it boil vigorously for a few minutes then cook more slowly for half an hour. At the last stir in the meat and turn into pans to cool. Cut in slices a half inch thick and fry brown. Serve hot for breakfast.

LACE MAKERS ENJOY BANQUET

The delegates attending the convention of the Amalgamated Lace Operators of America were entertained at a banquet Monday night at the Kingston Hotel. The banquet was largely attended by delegates and members of the local lace operators' association. The dinner was served faultlessly by Proprietor Leslie Flowers, the menu being as follows:

Blue Points on Half Shell
Consomme Clear
Grilled Shad Pommes French Fried
Sliced Cucumbers
Radishes Salted Nuts Celery
Mignon of Beef Mushroom Sauce
Roast Ulster County Chicken with dressing
Grilled Sweet Potatoes

Asparagus Tips
Stewed Tomatoes
Lettuce and Tomato Salad
Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Demi Tasse

A musical program followed the dinner, those contributing to its success being Mr. Leonard, Andrew Dykes, James Morton, Albert Fletcher, James Higgins, Ed. Callahan and Charles Eaton.

Speeches followed the entertainment. Vice President Hamill acting as toastmaster. President David Scott, who was one of the speakers, told in a most interesting way his experience while as a delegate to the Philadelphia convention of the American Federation of Labor, where Mayor Blankenburgh of Philadelphia and President Samuel Gompers of the Federation appeared before the convention. Both men had grown old in the work of trying to secure better government and better conditions. The delegates were welcomed by John Hardwick, secretary of the local branch of the Lace Operators, who expressed the hope that the convention would result in renewed interest and great stimulus to the association. A number of other delegates also responded briefly to toasts.

MISS MILDRED ELSIE GRAVES

INSIGNIA GIVEN HER BY WOUNDED SOLDIERS

U.S. NURSE BACK FROM WAR

ZONE PRAISES SPIRIT OF

WOUNDED "TOMMIES."

Miss Mildred Elsie Graves, and Regimental Insignia Given her by Wounded Soldiers.

Boston, Mass., May 9.—Unstinted

praise of the spirit of wounded British soldiers is given by Miss Mildred

Elsie Graves of West Roxbury, who has just returned from the English hospital at Wimereux, France. She was a member of the Second Harvard Unit of Nurses and the youngest nurse in the hospital.

Describing some of her experiences she said:

"I saw some terrible shrapnel cases while at Wimereux. Men without hips, jaws, legs, shoulders, and still others simply peppered with small shot. How they could remain alive is a miracle. And yet a large number do recover.

"The 'Tommies' are simply wonderful. Such cheerfulness is simply remarkable. Always a cheerful smile or a joke, no matter whether they could move or not. Suffering the agonies of a wound, with all sorts of terrible afflictions, meaning nothing to them—they were simply pure grit.

"Not once in all the hundreds of cases which passed through our ward did I ever get a cross word or an unkind remark. Always helping

'sister,' as they called us, whether we were making their beds, applying dressings to their wounds or feeding them. Always extremely polite, they would do anything in their power to help the nurse.

"And they would tell you about what they did or what they saw on the battlefields. Preposterous tales, some of them, that a little simple nurse would swallow with eyes and mouth wide open. But the moment that you left the room, they would start laughing, the story would be repeated all along the line and for days the poor nurse would suffer grips from all.

Choose Success or Failure.

The only road to advancement is to do your work so well that you are always ahead of the demands of your position. Our employers do not decide whether we shall stay where we are or go on and up; we decide that matter ourselves. Success or failure is not chosen for us; we choose them ourselves.—Hamilton Wright Mabie.

Daily Thought.

It is best to love wisely no doubt;

but to love foolishly is better than not to be able to love at all.—Thack-

A Case of Misplaced Confidence

By ETHEL MARSH

The main difficulty that stands in the way of us women competing with men in business and the professions is not, I think, that we are their inferiors, but that nature constantly threatens to break down our intentions.

When a girl begins to make her preparations for a profession she has before her four years of college and another four years of study in preparation for the field in which she is about to work. To a man the care of a wife and family is a natural consequence, and his success in his profession goes hand in hand with his being a husband and father. A woman under the same circumstances feels that marriage is tantamount—in most cases—to giving up all that she has so long been making preparations for.

When I was about to prepare myself for the medical profession I fully considered this question and concluded that I must decide between making medicine my life profession and a possible marriage. I decided in favor of the profession and made a solemn resolution that I would never marry. How I failed to carry out this resolve I am about to relate. I confess I am not well pleased at the cause of my failure. Had I met a member of my own profession—an eminent surgeon, for instance—and formed a professional as well as a matrimonial partnership with him I should not possibly regret my surrender to the little god. Instead of this, I was induced to break
my resolution by trickery.

I had barely commenced to practice my profession when I was called upon to visit a young man who was the oldest son of well to do parents. Indeed, the family was a very loving one. He being the idol, I was called by his sister, next younger than he, who gave me his symptoms, which were, as she described them, threatened melancholia.

"Bertie," she said, "is so attractive to the girls that they have spoiled him.
I think that if he had been born poor instead of rich and homely instead of handsome he would have chosen a profession and made a success of it. As it is, he has no object in life and is sinking into a state of mental immanity. It's such a pity, for he is the loveliest boy in the world."

This description of Albert Emerson was not calculated to interest me in his case for it indicated that he was just the kind of a man I would despise.
When I saw him there was something about him that supported his sister's description of him. I did not wonder that silly girls were disposed to make fools of themselves about him. When he looked at me out of his confidence inviting eyes and smiled his confiding smile, I was seized with an irresistible desire to serve him.

If anything was needed to convince me that he was one of those lovable men who win by frankness it was when his sister left me alone with him.
"Really, doctor," he said, "I can't permit you to waste your time and good intentions on so worthless a person as myself. I must tell you a secret. I am not ill at all. I'm in love.
Nothing will cure me except a response from the woman who has ensnared my whole being. Your drugs will not be of any avail with me, but evidently you can serve me. My mind, I admit, is ailing. If you know of any medicine that will steady me mentally prescribe it and, above all, do not fail to visit me regularly. Do you believe in the effect of one mind over another to the subject mind's benefit or the reverse?"

"I certainly do."
"Well, from the moment I first saw you I felt the effect of your mentality.
It may be that this love I bear is a symptom. If so your mentality may cure my body, and that may drive away this craving for the woman who has absorbed me. I beg of you, don't desert me. Come and see me often."

I was at this time much interested in the cure of disease by mental or spiritual influence and was caught by the way the young man put his case.
It would interest me to prove that his diagnosis of his case was correct. I would give him the benefit of my mental power over him.

This intention was facilitated by his family. Instead of being received by them as a physician I was treated as a friend. I did not attempt to exert any influence over the patient. I simply permitted whatever influence I possessed to act upon him. He seemed to grow better gradually. One day his sister asked me to ride with him and her. I accepted. Then I rode out with him alone.

I had been visiting Albert Emerson thus semi-professionally for several months when one day he made a confession to me. I was the woman he loved and had loved long before I had visited him. But this confession was not made until my wings had been so far clipped that I could not fly away.

In other words, I had been trapped.
The worst of it was that I did not wish to be untrapped. I had been gradually absorbed by a man who I had not dreamed wanted me or I wanted. And now, ten years after our marriage he has further confessed that he won me simply because he had heard that I had decided never to marry.

I am ashamed through all my nature to have loved so slight a thing.

But, all the same, I love my husband and my children. My profession has long ago faded away from me.

Laws Would Do Away With the Pestiferous Fly

IT would appear, from what we know of the life history of the common housefly and from what remedial experimentation has already been carried on, that it is perfectly feasible for cities and towns to so greatly reduce the numbers of these snooping and dangerous insects as to render them of comparatively slight account. The health departments of most of our cities have the authority to abate nuisances dangerous to health,
and it is easy for the health authorities of any city to formulate rules concerning the construction and care of stables and the keeping and disposal of manure which, if enforced, will do away with the housefly nuisance.

Will Shine in Opera.

"I understand that a two-headed calf was born in this neighborhood a few weeks ago." "You betcha!" triumphantly replied the landlord of the Petu-luma tavern. "And the fellow that owns it expects to make a fortune in the op'ry business showing it around at the fairs next fall in a tent."—Kansas City Star.

GENERAL OBREGON & CONSUL GARCIA

INTL. FILM SERVICE

ORDER CONFERENCE SAID TO BE OVER.

With the meeting between General Obregon, Carranza's minister of war, and General Scott, chief of staff of the U. S. army, at El Paso, Texas, May 7, the border conflict as well as the peace over. It is reported that General Carranza has approved the tentative agreement between Scott and Obregon. This picture shows General Carranza (at the right) and Consul Garcia, the Carranzista representative at El Paso, at the left. Garcia is returning a communication from General Carranza to General Obregon.

Nothing Weak About That.

"Cynicism and acquisitiveness abhorably large," said the pharmacologist, examining the body of a man who showed colored, Sambo rolled his eyeballs and showed two rows of white teeth. "Imstativeness, vagrancy and conscientiousness small, which, with four weak month, indicate—" "Don't you be so shy 'bout me habin' a weak month,
I kin crack nuts in ma teeth."

Old Idea in New Form.

"Pa," said a schoolboy who delighted to give information to his seniors,
"a process has been patented for treating the edges of paper money so that when the bills are placed in a phonograph, they make sounds that prove their genuineness." "A novel idea," said the father, "but, after all, that is only another way of making money talk."

Must Have the Goods.

You can be just as nice to customers as you want to be. You can put them under obligations to you. You can advertise till you are teetotally broke, and you can talk till you're black in the face, but if you don't have the goods, people are going to go to the store of the man who does have them, and you can't blame them.—
Frank Farrington.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 9, 1916.

The German note to which our Government has just replied was written in such an awkward and rambling style as to make it susceptible to two interpretations. Did Germany promise unconditionally to discontinue the illegal features of its submarine warfare, incidentally expressing the hope that the United States would hold England also to the strict letter of the law, or did it make the latter a condition of its own promised good behavior? It seems clear enough to us that the second supposition is correct. Otherwise there is no meaning to the assertion that "should steps taken by the Government of the United States not attain the object it desires, to have the laws of humanity followed by all belligerent nations, the German Government would then be facing a new situation in which it must reserve to itself complete liberty of decision." However, Count von Bernstorff says that this language does not mean what it appears to mean. President Wilson takes the same view, "notwithstanding," he says, "that certain passages in the Imperial Government's note might appear to be susceptible to that (the opposite) construction." This is the easy way out of a difficult situation, and we suppose that there will be more "watchful waiting." This period will probably not last long. There is news today of the liner "Gyrfalcon" being torpedoed. When the particulars are received it will appear what value lies in the German promises. Past experience warrants the opinion that the German Government intends to make no change in its methods.

The shooting of a New York policeman by another member of the force while enacting a stage play intended to impress Mayor Mitchell and other city officials with the value of police dogs creates an interesting situation. The policeman who was shot, garbed like a tramp had been practicing with the dog, and at the proper instant he seized the pocketbook of a police matron according to the pre-arranged plan and then started to run through the crowd with the dog in pursuit. Most of the policemen in the vicinity were aware of the plan but one officer who had been detailed in plain clothes to act as the mayor's bodyguard and to look out for pickpockets had not been informed, so he blazed away at what he says he supposed was a fleeing thief, shooting him through the "mouth" twice. The department of police admits it had staged a play to impress the mayor. It accuses the policeman who didn't know the plans of trying a little stage play, of his own and blames him likewise for poor judgment in using his gun in a dense crowd. If the offending policeman was attempting to impress his superiors with his ability, he still remains guilty of negligence in not considering the safety of the crowd of innocent bystanders who might have been shot by mistake. Even his defense that his judgment of aim was too good to miss the mark, as borne out by the facts, does not relieve him of blame. But is the conduct of the police department in setting such a play any less reprehensible? At all times, in all crowds, there are hot-heads whose first thought is to use a gun and any man of such tendencies would be apt to pull a gun to fire at what he might well suppose was a thief in flight. Would not justice dictate that blame be placed on the department and that the policeman be absolved?

Figures relating to the enlistment in the New York National Guard and the regular army of the United States will make an interesting comparison when they become available. In connection with the preparedness parade in New York city next Saturday, the National Guard officials will open recruiting stations along the line of march as the beginning of a movement to secure the enlistment of three thousand men in the Guard within thirty days. If the desired three thousand recruits are obtained, enlistment will be at the rate of one hundred recruits a day. The regular army has not yet been recruited up to the increased strength voted by Congress late in the winter. Reports from recruiting stations after the bill was passed showed that the army recruiting was at the rate of about one hundred a day. The daily rate of discharges from the army due to completion of terms of service and other causes is quite large, so that the net gain for the army's increase has not been large, and the army still lacks its full peace strength. These conditions, of course, find the United States at peace with other nations, with the exception of a punitive expedition in Mexico, but the necessity of preparedness, both as to the regular army and the National Guard, which is its auxiliary, has been shown clearly and is well understood. The Dominion of Canada is not at war, but the Mother Country is one of the European combatants, and the Dominion in helping her has already enlisted 320,000 men. Furthermore, Canada proposes to raise five hundred thousand additional troops before the first of January, which will be at the rate of more than two thousand a day. The rate of one thousand a day is being steadily maintained in Canada. What will the United States army and the New York National Guard do in securing recruits?

BY HONE TALENT.

Minstrels of Young Men's Brotherhood of Church of the Redeemer.

At St. Peter's School Hall on Friday evening at 8:15, the curtain will rise on the annual minstrel and show of the Young Men's Brotherhood of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

The first section will show the minstrel show, with a chorus of 24 male voices, and the funny jokes and comic antics of the end men will be sure to please. The ends will be covered by the following well known minstrel men: Fred W. Weber, Fred W. Spangenberg, William C. Rivenburg and C. J. Heiselman, with L. J. Spangenberg, Jr., as inter-locutor. "Cool" J. Peterson, late of the Metropolitan opera chorus, is conductor, and under his able direction the solo and chorus work is exceptionally fine. The stage arrangement at this year's show will be entirely different than anything ever staged heretofore, and several new features have been added which are sure to prove an immense success.

The first part of the olio will be a clever balancing act by Kingston's Hercules, Ralph Mann. Mr. Mann was secured for this performance with some difficulty and his marvelous skill and strength are sure to take the breath away from the entire audience.

The last section will be an unusually clever one-act comedy, and while it is scrawlingly funny in parts, its climax is serious indeed, being the famous "Quartet from Rigoletto." This quartet, from Verdi's opera "Rigoletto," this quartet and several others will be sung in the sketches by Herman LaTour, tenor, Miss Elizabeth Rueser, soprano, Mrs. Wallace Boyce (New York), contralto, and Carl M. Peterson, baritone. The "Quartet from Rigoletto" is indeed an ambitious undertaking for any vocalists, but it can be truly said that the artists above named will render this difficult number with real artistic worth.

A full program will be printed in Thursday's papers.

There were $50 attendants at last year's annual show of the Young Men's Brotherhood, and even a greater attendance is expected this year because of its increased excellence. However, a great many extra chairs have been provided and a seat will be provided for everyone who attends.

After the performance an orchestra will play until 1 a. m., and delicious refreshments will be served.

In Substitute Land.

Upton Sinclair, the novelist, was talking about Germany.

"Germany was in the past," he said, "the land of substitutes—tea, substitutes and coffee substitutes, leather and rubber substitutes, milk and egg and butter substitutes—and today she is more the land of substitution than ever."

"Germany boasts today substitutes for substitutes—substitutes for butter substitutes, substitutes for coffee substitutes, and so on."

"There's a story about four German flies."

"The first fly lit on some honey and fed heartily. But it was a substitute honey, adulterated with prussic acid, and in a moment the fly keeled over and expired."

"The second fly tackled in a saloon a crust of bread. This bread contained a 68 per cent filler of sawdust which the fly could not manage. The insect died in horrible agony."

"The third fly lit on the edge of a glass of beer. The beer was adulterated with trinitrotoluol. This killed the fly."

"The fourth fly, overcome by the loss of his friends, decided to make way with himself. So he settled on a sheet of fly paper marked 'Poison,' and ate and ate and ate."

"But the more he ate, the better he felt. For the poison, too, was adulterated. After filling himself up with it the fly flew away refreshed and cheered."—New York Herald.

Her Interim.

Ex-Secretary of War Garrison said, in a Camden war argument:

"Ignorance! Military ignorance! Why, it's as bad as the etymological ignorance of the Camden girl."

"A young man was praising a Philadelphia restaurant to a Camden girl."

"It's so deuced proper," he said, "that you have to engage your table three days in advance." Then he laughed and added: "But they feed you so well that it's worth while going without food in the interim."

"It wouldn't be much fun for me, though," said the girl, "to go around for three days with an empty interim."

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

ANNUAL MEETING OF Y. M. C. A.

The annual meeting of the members of the Y. M. C. A. was held on Monday at the association for the purpose of receiving the reports of the officers and the election of five directors. The directors elected were S. E. Eighmey, Charles R. O'Connor, Louis Beeres, Mayor Palmer Canfield, and Harry S. Essien, all for a term of three years. The reports of the officers follow:

Report of the General Secretary.

To the Board of Directors, Central Young Men's Christian Association of Kingston, N. Y., May 1st, 1916.

The following report is for the year ending May 1st, 1916. The Y. M. C. A. is an institution which increases the value of the man and makes him worth more to himself, his country, and his God. The Y. M. C. A. teaches men and boys to find themselves. The worth of the Y. M. C. A. cannot be estimated in words. Its dividends are divine.

During the year the officers of the association have endeavored to impress upon the people of the city that this is their institution and their opportunity for service, and to this end the literature of the Y. M. C. A. at large, has been continually put before them. Twenty-six different organizations, representing the religious, social and business interests of the city, have made use of the rooms provided for them in holding meetings, socials, entertainments, luncheons, banquets and conventions. Some have made use of the rooms every week, while others have used them occasionally.

Open House.—At the time of opening the active work in the fall the privileges of the building were open to different men's organizations and factories of the city, thereby showing them the advantages of the association. A similar open house was afforded to all the different grammar schools of the city, and was fully enjoyed by the boys. The high school boys were invited to spend their leisure time during the noon hour in the Y. M. C. A. parlors and reading room. A large number, therefore, came to the building and spent their noon hour in singing and a social time.

Committees.—Two hundred and thirty-two different men and boys have been working on committees during the year, not only to help carry on the work of the association, but to get the training afforded by the experience of serving others.

Physical Work.—The association has in its physical work one of its greatest assets, in the development of the body part of the triangle, for clean athletics, clean growth and clean living. The directors of the work have made every effort of meeting these standards. Lawrence C. Godfrey has written a separate statistical report of this work. The total attendance in the building for this department, as estimated from this report, is about sixteen thousand men and boys. For those men and boys outside of the membership there has been conducted a junior baseball league, reaching about 300 boys; a church bowling league of six teams for men, and a church basketball league of six teams for men. In September a swimming campaign was held for all boys in the city, both members and non-members. Out of one hundred entries, ninety-four learned to swim.

Boys Division.—The boys division has been supervised this year by Harry D. Evory. Work with boys during the "teenage" development shows greater results than at any other age. "The boy with a purpose" is the greatest asset to the community. A separate statistical report of the work of this department is given by Mr. Evory.

Memberships.—The present paid memberships of the Y. M. C. A. is 702, of which 407 are men and 295 are boys. A special membership campaign was carried on in October, in form of the National Base-Ball League. The total receipts for memberships during the year were $4,250.70. There are 99 pledged memberships on the books towards which nothing at all has been paid.

Dormitory.—An exceptionally fine group of young men have used the dormitories during the past year. The average monthly rental was 18, and the total receipts for the year $2,383.82. The Y. M. C. A. has been used more this year than ever by travelling members.

Religious.—The one purpose of the work permeates all activities is to help men and boys to find themselves. Besides the minor help and advice given to men and boys daily, regular situations have been found for 14. Several have been directed to boarding houses, and rooms outside of the building.

The number of persons serving on committees for the promotion of religious work is 19. There are five Bible classes in the building including one of the gymnasium men and four for the boys. The courses taught are "Athletes of the Bible," "Travels of Paul," and "Boys' Life of Christ." Seventeen professed to begin the Christian life.

Total number of Sunday meetings 16; total attendance 3,386; average attendance 336. No meeting of the association was held during the time of the uptown Union Evangelistic campaign.

That hearty and healthful Christian influence of the Y. M. C. A. upon the community, characteristic of the Y. M. C. A. work, must necessarily be held in place by the ever-reaching Christian influence of the officers of the association and by all members of the association actively engaged in carrying on its activities.

That transparent faith, and the untiring efforts of every person who recognizes the possibilities of service, in the Y. M. C. A. are the forces which make our efforts and words fruitful of results beyond our realization.

Social.—The annual New Year's open house was held again this year. The program consisted of an entertainment by Princess Nadonis, in the auditorium, boys' camp exhibit on the second floor; music in the parlors; class work exhibit, in the gymnasium, by both the young men and young ladies; swimming races in the swimming pool and refreshments. Estimated attendance 1,500.

One of the best Star Courses ever held by the Y. M. C. A. was given this year, but owing to many conflicts in dates, with other entertainments, was not a financial success.

Election returns were received in the auditorium and thrown on the screen on election night.

One hundred twenty-one social gatherings have been held during the year, consisting of dinners, banquets and socials.

The lunch room is a mighty important factor in the social life of the Y. M. C. A. 4,334 meals have been served during the year. Its usefulness has been shown by its popularity.

Educational.—No educational class work has been accomplished this year. The demand for this service has been well met by the two business schools and the high school of the city.

A moving picture equipment has been installed in the auditorium by Soto Suetar of the West Side Y. M. C. A., New York City, and since February 7, a separate moving picture business, under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A., has been conducted by him. The hall has previously been used but little and it was thought by the directors that clean moving pictures would not only be an asset to the educational and social part of the work, but would bring in an income for the support of the work.

The number of magazines and periodicals in the library are 37. The number of books drawn during the year 165. The number of educational lectures given 4. Total attendance 620, and average attendance 150. Educational clubs have a total enrollment of 76.

Ladies' Auxiliary.—The Ladies' Auxiliary has as usual been a great help to the work. The present membership is 375. A special dinner was given by the ladies for the purchase of an Edison Diamond Disc for the parlors. This machine is used every day of the week except Sunday and has furnished a great deal of joy and entertainment to the members. The physical department has been given over to the ladies each Thursday. The present membership in the ladies classes is 145.

This excellent building with its complete equipment built by the people of the city is worthy of the cities utmost use and support.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. D. BECKWITH,

General Secretary.

Physical Department.

Annual report of the physical department committee, May 1, 1916:

The monthly report for April is included in this report.

During the past year the physical department work has not been only confined to the four walls of the gymnasium but work has been done outside the building. Last summer the Junior Baseball League was organized in which six teams were entered and played three days a week. The league closed after a successful season and there were about 300 boys touched through this work.

The church bowling league the past winter was a form of extension work which proved successful in that it brought a number of men who were not members of the association into touch with it. This league was composed of six different church teams.

The church basketball was another success in extension work; it interested six different church teams and the players were non-members of the association. This league was also the means of bringing a number of spectators to the building.

The regular indoor work during the past season has been very satisfactory. All activities started early and continued up to the present time. The business men have not been as active as they should have been, but all other classes have shown great interest in the gymnasium work. The classes have been actively engaged in basketball, and athletic leagues during the season. The popular Saturday nights proved attractive to the public as well as beneficial to the association, because it brought these people in touch with the work.

Games rolled, 13,002; attendance, 3,797. Match games rolled, 44. Gymnasium attendance: Business men and seniors, 1,349; 110 sessions. Boys' classes, 5,802; 295 sessions. Totals for class work, 7,152, 405 sessions. Total for all indoor privileges with the exception of bowling: Men, 1,349; boys, 6,023, total, 8,372. Baths taken: Men, 3,539; boys, 9,741. Swimming campaigns for one week had one hundred entrants and 94 of them learned to swim.

The association has been doing some of the real work that it was first organized for and that was brought men and boys in touch with Jesus Christ. Six boys have converted the Christ during the past season besides those three who were in camp. It is hoped this next year will be brought in touch with Christ and one of the best places for a boy to be at again. It is hoped this camp will be carried on at least for three weeks and that the board of directors or part of them will make it a point to go to camp and remain over night. You do not see the real work or influence on the boy until night time. A few of the board were out last year and saw this Christian work done by the leaders of each tent and it is hoped that those who visited the camp will be strong for it again this season. Camp is not a money making venture but a real vital part of all association work.

Respectfully submitted,

L. C. GODFREY,

Report of the Boys' Work Committee

May 8, 1916.

To the Board of Directors:

Gentlemen:

The Boys' Work Committee of the Central Young Men's Christian Association submits the following report:

The Boys' Department believes that the boys are a city's most valuable assets and thus we try to lead them along lines of right thinking and right living so they will develop into valuable men and citizens.

Membership.—The membership of the boys' department on April 30th was 255; of this number 75 were high school, 32 employed boys and 148 juniors.

Executive Committee.—The boys' department is in charge of the Boys' Work Committee, consisting of six business men of the city who are interested in boys.

Membership Campaign.—A membership campaign was conducted last fall at the same time of the senior campaign. Eight teams were formed with ten men on a team. The winning team was captained by W. Harry Connolly.

Boys' Camp.—The boys' camp was held for three weeks from July 7th to 28th at Lake Anawana, Sullivan county, New York. Five members of the board were visitors at camp last summer. The total number of campers were 48. The camp was in charge of L. C. Godfrey, assisted by an able corps of leaders.

Twenty-one different chapel talks were given at camp with an average attendance of 43. At the camp, devotions were held each evening in every tent in charge of the leader. Every boy took part by giving a short prayer aloud before going to sleep.

Three took a decided stand for Christ and six who had already given their lives to the Master decided for clean speech, clean habits and right living.

Camp is not a money making venture, but it is a boy developing institution. By this kind of right living for three weeks, a boy's mind is turned into lines of right thinking and clean living.

The honor system was used whereby a camper might earn points for doing camp service and thus prove his worth as a camper and demonstrate his value to himself and community.

P. G. Randall of Flushing, N. Y., was present for one week and his son was with us for three weeks. He was so enthused with the merits of the honor system that he presented the boy getting the most points with a silver loving cup. This cup was won by Edwin Kirchner. Mr. Randall has presented us with a check for $10 toward the expense this summer besides sending the registrations of three boys from Flushing. An endeavor is being made to raise, by personal interviews with men interested in boys, enough money to carry on the work at camp this coming summer. The Mystics were organized last summer at camp of the boys who had earned 275 points the previous summer. There were fourteen charter members in this order and they will be a big influence in working up camp this summer.

It is hoped that more of the board might be able to get to camp and stay there at least one night and see some of the real work that is done.

Religious.—Rochester convention The state convention for older boys was held at Rochester November 26, 27 and 28. The Kingston Y. M. C. A. and churches were represented by 31 young men. Two of these decided to unite with the church on their return from the conference. Each delegate on his return home gave reports to the organization he represented. Two meetings have been held where the delegates were present in a body and told of the benefits derived from such a meeting. The good accomplished at this conference is unmeasurable.

Sunday Meetings.—Meetings were held for older boys on Sunday afternoon. The body of young men was known as the Order of St. George. This organization was named after Sir George Williams, the founder of the Young Men's Christian Association. Fourteen sessions were held up to January 15th when the body united with the men at their Sunday meeting.

Bible Study.—The Bible study classes were not organized until after the membership campaign was completed, on November 17. The juniors met every Wednesday evening for the bean supper and Bible study. Teachers: C. Rowland, Charles Shultis, C. H. Beckwith and H. Elmendorf. Sixteen sessions were held with a total attendance of 464 average attendance 29 juniors. Twenty-two juniors took examinations in Bible study. Of this number fifteen passed with a good percentage. Thomas Rowland passed high with 91 per cent.

Socials.—An open house for grammar school boys was held September 17th to 21st. There were 240 different boys who came in and used the games and swimming pool that week.

A Hard Time Social was held October 29 with Joe Lorraine as the entertainer. Attendance 20.

The camp reunion was held November 28. Mr. Randall was guest of honor and at this time presented his loving cup to the honor camper. Attendance 30.

On December 13 Red Fox James held a pow-wow for boys and gave an illustrated lecture on Indian life.

The Hobby show and Minstrel show were held February 20. This hobby show was rather unique in that the exhibitions were something the boys had made, collected or were interested in. Red Fox James was present and entertained and on February 23 held a pow-wow for 52 boys.

A camp exhibit was held on New Years Day. Four tennis, cots and other camping material was exhibited in the educational room.

Besides pool tournaments, shuffle board and table croquet tournaments have been held in the game room. No record has been kept of the number visiting the rooms and using the games, but the games have been kept busy all season.

Boy Scouts.—On February 1, the Boys' Work secretary assumed charge of Troop No. 1 of the Boy Scouts of America. There are now 36 members in the troop. Meetings are held every Friday evening with an average attendance of 22. Since taking charge the scouts have been on parade once, that being the occasion of the Governor's visit to the automobile show. Three hikes have been held and one First Aid lecture by Dr. Frank Keator. One union meeting of all the Boy Scouts in the city was held in the Educational rooms at which there were 58 present.

Extension.—The Boys' Work secretary assisted in forming a young men's class at West Camp. Attendance 30. Other work has been done at Binnewater and Saugerties.

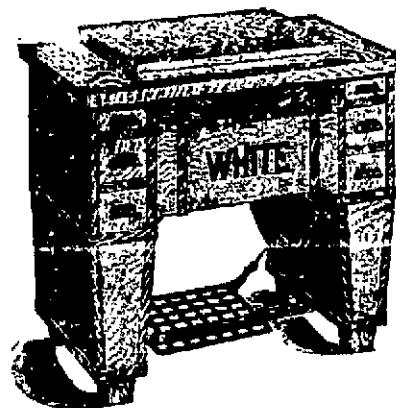

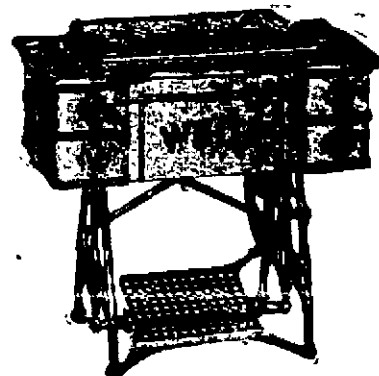

Reading Room.—The reading table has 17 magazines besides a copy of scouting and a daily paper. The library number 204 volumes, 115 have been drawn and used since September 1.

Absentminded Lord Derby.

Lord Derby could be very absentminded, and once on a time he walked with Lord Clarendon, his opponent, and told him all the secrets of the cabinet. Lord Clarendon listened amazed, but thought it too large an order when he was asked for his advice. It was not for him to counsel his political foes. At this intimation Lord Derby woke up, saying, "Really, I thought all the time I was talking to a colleague." He had continued, hardly recognizing the fact, a controversy he had been having with other ministers at the foreign office. Of course Lord Clarendon honorably preserved the cabinet secrets, but he told his story against Lord Derby and made a laugh.

"Here's a strange case," said Mrs. Spotter to her husband. "A man they called the town fool died, and they weighed his brain. It was heavier than the average."

The Secret of Success.

"There has been altogether too much talk about the secret of success," says Dr. Russell H. Conwell in the American Magazine. "Success has no secret. Her voice is forever ringing through the market place and crying in the wilderness, and the burden of her cry is one word—will. Any normal young man who hears and heeds that cry is equipped fully to climb to the very heights of life."

MAKE AUDITORIUM REAL CIVIC FORUM

Chamber of Commerce Urges Liberal Interpretation of State Law by Board of Education in Order to Broaden Uses of High School by Public.

That a greater public use of the high school auditorium should be encouraged by the board of education was the unanimous opinion expressed by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce at the May meeting Monday night in the common council chambers, city hall. Resolutions urging liberal interpretation of the state laws on the subject were passed as offered by former President John B. Kearney.

Director Vincent Gorman asked to know the object of the introduction of the resolution and Mr. Kearney made plain his idea that the auditorium should be available for entertainments of educational value, subject to proper restrictions to protect the school against enterprises conducted for revenue only in which the promoters receive the benefit.

President Sam Bernstein of the board of education gave his approval of the resolution which, he said, expressed his ideas on the subject exactly although he had known nothing of its introduction. He told of the orderliness which marked the holding of the firemen's convention in the auditorium.

"It has always been my idea to have the auditorium as a civic forum for the use of the public," said President Bernstein.

George Burgevin inquired concerning the state law governing the use of the auditorium. J. E. Klock expressed his approval of the resolution which he said was carefully drawn.

Mr. Bernstein said he knew of no reason why the Symphony Society was denied the use of the auditorium but that the board had taken such action which it had the power to do. Arthur C. Connelly said that the Symphony Society could have taken an appeal to the State Education Department had some formalities been complied with.

The discussion ended with the unanimous passage of the resolution which reads as follows:

Whereas the taxpayers of the city of Kingston have paid and are paying liberally for the construction and maintenance of the Kingston high school, and

Whereas the auditorium of the high school is favorably located and eminently adapted to public gatherings where our present and future citizens might profit by and enjoy various kinds of meetings of educational value such as musical and literary entertainments and lectures or addresses on patriotic, scientific, sociologic and other profitable subjects, and

Whereas the whole tendency of present day public school administration is to encourage the liberal use of the buildings and facilities of the public schools of our state and nation and for the purposes mentioned, therefore be it

Resolved that the Chamber of Commerce of Kingston, having in view the benefits to be expected from the free use of the high school auditorium for public entertainments, lectures, etc. of an educational or uplifting nature, hereby recommends to the board of education a liberal interpretation of the State Education Law to the end that the fullest possible use of the high school auditorium be encouraged and especially that every enterprise of our own citizens, having proper objects and properly managed, be given the most careful and sympathetic consideration, and be it further

Resolved that the secretary be and is hereby instructed to deliver a copy of these resolutions into the hands of the board of education.

Kingston on Circus Map.

The annual discussion as to the proposed route of the circus parade was held with a variety of suggestions ranging from one to have them cover both sections of the city, another in favor of the restricted route between Clinton avenue and Delaware avenues, and a third for no parade at all. This last proposition is favored by the circus people, who fear the effect on their live stock in making the grade up from Roundout. After the parade had been marched up the hill and down again, the communication from the mayor was received and filed and the problem left for him to settle. The Barnum & Bailey people stated that Kingston is the only Hudson valley city where they are exhibiting this spring, the jump being made here from New York and from hence to Scheenectady.

Mail Service "Satisfactory."

No matter what Kingston business men state to the contrary, the post-office department declares that the mail service across the river to and from this city is "satisfactory." That is the substance of a report made by Division Clerk Williams which was mentioned in part in a letter from Congressman Ward. This announcement by Secretary Canfield was received with anything but pleasure by the directors who were outspoken in their opinion as to the service given at present at the postoffice. It was finally decided to invite Congressman Ward to come to Kingston at his earliest convenience in order that he might be told the views of business men on this subject—such views being difficult to express by letter.

Chairman Arthur C. Connelly, of the legislative committee, presented that body's report on three pieces of legislation. On the federal legislation to authorize manufacturers to fix the re-sale prices of their products in order to stop price-cutting, the committee's adverse report was adopted. A similar report was approved opposing the proposition to appropriate millions from the federal treasury for the teaching of farm and industrial courses in rural and urban schools. A commission of five members at $10,000 each per year was provided in the bill.

On legislation in favor of preparedness, the committee split two and two as to the propriety of the proposition and Chairman Connelly expressed his belief that the matter was too indefinite for intelligent action. The directors voted that the item be filed without action.

Co-operation of the Chamber was asked by Mrs. Clara Norton Reed, Ezra Abrams and Elva H. Bogart for the annual musical festival of the Kingston Symphony Society to be held in the armory June 5, 6 and 7. After some discussion, the Chamber voted its moral support to the enterprise.

The assistance given the automobile show by the Chamber was made the subject of a letter of thanks from the Kingston Automobile Trade Association which sent the Chamber a copy of its complimentary resolutions in acknowledgment of the valuable co-operation given.

Announcement was made by Mr. Kearney that the Hudson Valley Chamber of Commerce delegates would meet in Kingston May 25th, and that the matter of entertainment was left to the local delegates. In the evening the visitors will be asked to attend the transcontinental telephone demonstration.

The secretary announced that invitations had been received from the Kingston Dairy, the Gas and Electric Company for industrial visits by the directors. The next visit is to be made to the New York Telephone Company. Endorsement of Clean-up Week and other work of the executive committee was given by the directors.

MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH

Maud Ballington Booth is a woman with a burning message. She is the "Little Mother" of the prisons. More than 35,000 men have testified that their lives were saved by her work through the Volunteer Prison League. Mrs. Booth is brimful of fire and enthusiasm. She has a strong personality, but it is wholly submerged in her message. She stirs her audience. You will laugh through your tears.

THE LITTLE MOTHER OF THE PRISONS

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth Will Lecture This Evening at Chautauqua—The Strollers Quartet Will Sing.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, who is often referred to by the convicts as "the little mother of the prisons," will deliver the lecture this evening at Chautauqua in the high school auditorium and undoubtedly there will be a large attendance this evening to hear this noted woman who is known throughout the United States for her work. The musical end of the program is in charge of the Strollers Quartet who come highly recommended. Altogether the program this evening is the strongest of the week.

Thus afternoon Mrs. Gregory, the platform superintendent, gave another of her series lecture on "Readings From Southern Authors." The Strollers Quartet had charge of the musical end of the program. Monday evening a fine concert was rendered by the Harp Concert Party which was followed by an interesting address on "Rebuilding Your Town" delivered by Dr. A. R. Turner.

Wednesday Chautauqua will be brought to a close with Victor's Band and the blind players.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A New and Very Chic Costume.
1574—Waist. 1575—Skirt.

A delightful afternoon or calling gown could be evolved from this attractive creation. It comprises Ladies' Waist Pattern 1574, cut in 6 sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches waist measure. Plaid woolen, with white satin for collar and fancy buttons is here shown. The models are also good for serge, cashmere, gabardine, taffeta, voile, nun's veiling and all wash fabrics. Waist and skirt are both finished with yoke and panel sections. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length. To make the dress of one material will require 6 1/2 yards of 44 inch wide. The waist alone will require 2 1/2 yards. The skirt, which measures about 3 1/2 yards at the foot, requires 4 1/2 yards for a medium size. This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps, by The Freeman Pattern Department, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1916 large Spring and Summer catalogue containing over 400 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, as well as the latest Embroidery Designs, also a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

A Complete Manual in Crochet and Tatting!

Just what you will say when you get our instruction book. Our Crochet and Tatting Book contains more than 50 projects in lacework designs such as: lacework sets, doilies, tray cloths, oval mats, insertions, edgings, yokes for coats, etc., nightgowns, and a variety of tatting designs for baby wear, etc. Below each illustration is a full and complete set of instructions. The book will be found a complete list of materials required, together with a simplified course on all stitches used in making up the article. This complete manual will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps or silver. Write your name and address plainly and address your letter to the Pattern Dept., Freeman Publishing Co., Kingston, N. Y.

Glenwood

"It certainly does make cooking easy"

Complete Gas Range attached to the end of Coal Range.

Glenwoods are Brim Full of Good Things

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best of all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

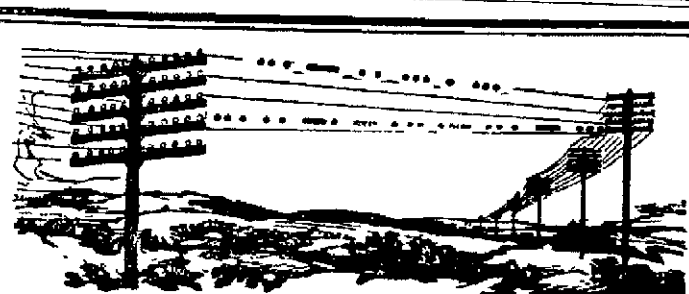

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper. Get one and you'll be glad ever after.

In commemoration of sixteen years' successful business on Wall street we will devote the 10 days from THURSDAY, MAY 11, until SATURDAY, MAY 27, to great value-giving. Every dollar's worth of high-grade merchandise will be marked down to please the most economic and exacting customer.

Newest Spring Coats, Suits, Dresses and Skirts
All Included in This Anniversary Sale

Part of this sale is made up of special purchases. Most of it is the result of careful planning and copying high-class models at a less expense. These models reproduce styles that were double these prices earlier in the season, and worth it by every standard of value. The fact that the season has advanced is a reason why manufacturers were able to undertake this work for us, using up their remainders of fine fabrics. To these we have added certain lots ordered and intended for our Easter Sales, but which arrived too late because of delayed shipment. We have put these in at reduced prices because of concessions by the makers.

ON MEMORIAL DAY

Thousands Will be in Line to Honor the Veterans, Living and Dead, on the Morning of May 30.

Kingston will have the biggest Memorial Day parade in its history and reports made to the general committee in charge of the arrangements Monday night indicate that four thousand men will be in line.

The parade will start from the city hall at 10 o'clock and all parade arrangements will be in charge of Major George Chandler as grand marshal. He will attend to the formation of the parade, the assignment of the organizations to the streets from which they will debouch for their position in the parade.

Prior to the parade, the graves of the Revolutionary, Civil War and Spanish War soldiers in the various cemeteries will be decorated by details from Pratt Post, 127, G. A. R., and the school children from the various schools.

The line of march will be from the city hall up Broadway to Albany avenue, thence countermarching on Broadway to Stuyvesant street, and thence again countermarching on Broadway to the city hall, where there will be exercises and speaking.

Committee for Final Arrangements. The speaking at the city hall will take place immediately on the disbanding of the parade. A committee on plan and scope was appointed at Monday evening's meeting, consisting of Major James H. Everett, Captain Frank L. Meagher, Major George Chandler, Alderman Robert McKittrick, John E. Mahar, Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, Captain Everett Fowler, Lucullus Dunne and Griffin A. Hart. All further arrangements will be made by this committee.

Efforts are being made to get speakers of national reputation and the program will be unusually interesting. A speakers' stand will be erected on the city hall property and it is planned to have the high school pupils and the pupils of the other schools occupy places on the high school lawn, from which point of vantage they will be able to hear everything.

Escort for Old Veterans. Company M will act as an escort to the Grand Army veterans, who will review the parade from the city hall, where space will be provided for them.

Fire Alarm to Start Parade. A request will be made to the board of fire commissioners to sound the fire alarm for the preparation and start of the parade, and as it has been customary to grant such requests, the parade will probably be started on signals sounded on the fire alarm system.

Company M in Heavy Marching Order.

The parade will be a most interesting feature. Company M will appear in full marching order, each member being equipped with all the equipment which would be required if the company was engaged in actual maneuvers. The equipment of each man weighs complete about fifty pounds.

City Firemen Will Make Good Showing.

Another feature of the parade will be the members of the different city fire organizations, who will parade in a body, headed by a drum corps of forty pieces. Five of the city companies already have notified the secretary of the committee of their intention to parade and other companies are expected to take similar action. They will appear in uniform but without their apparatus.

Odd Fellows to Form Whole Division

One division of the parade will be made up of Odd Fellows, of which there are five lodges in this city. The Red Men will parade in full regalia and will be accompanied by about fifty members of the order from Saugerties.

Floats to be a Feature.

Floats will be another feature of the parade which will be particularly pleasing. A request from the Camp Fire Girls of Ulster Academy to enter a float in the parade was granted by the committee, and it was decided to invite all patriotic organizations in the city who so desire to enter whatever floats they desire. It is expected that some of the floats will be of an historical character, but there is a wide field from which to select subjects for floats.

Aides and Police to Assist.

The board of water supply police force will send a detail of mounted patrolmen to take part in the parade, and there will also be a detail of the local police. Major Chandler will need a number of aides to attend to the various divisions, and fifteen mounted aides already have signified their acceptance of the invitation to render all assistance possible. Others who will serve as aides are requested to notify Kenneth Archer as soon as possible.

No Parking for Automobiles

Along the entire route on Broadway no parking of automobiles or wagons will be allowed during the parade. Usually there are some people whose anxiety to see parades leads them to disrupt all arrangements made for the benefit of the public but this year the streets will be cleared of all obstructions of this character, and the police rules in this regard will be rigidly enforced.

Everybody Should Decorate.

Along the line of march it is expected that there will be an abundance of decorations and the committee requests that throughout the entire city flags shall be displayed, and business houses and private residences shall be appropriately decorated.

It being said that Crown Prince Hirohito himself keeps a private stock of kajiya, or singing frogs. The favorite singing insect is the kantan, a species of locust, which must always be kept in the shade and never sprinkled with water if he is to vocalize.

BIG PRICES FOR REMINGTON BRASS

There are many metals of greater value but when it comes to a sheriff's sale these days there is nothing like brass to bring topnotch prices. The jump in the price of this metal is equal to anything accomplished in that line by war brides in the stock market as shown by the prices brought by all brass articles sold Monday at the Remington Motor plant where Sheriff Shultis held sway for three hours selling almost everything movable on the premises to satisfy executions totalling more than $1,000. Jailer Jocelyn acted as clerk and nearly $600 was realized from the sheriff's efforts as an auctioneer.

Junkmen were active among the forty odd bidders at the sale and everything in brass was bought up at a price that surprised many onlookers. A box of 1,000 thin brass labels for Remington cars, weighing about forty pounds, brought $12 as junk. Other brass automobile parts sold at figures which averaged about 35 cents a pound for the actual brass. One lot of thin aluminum strips for fenders went for $10 but was re-sold for $8 when the original purchaser said it was not aluminum ware.

William M. Davis secured a big drill for $65 while another not so good went for $35. The latter figure was also paid by Jacob Rice for a fine electric drill. Another electric drill went for $17. Inner tubes and all kinds of minor auto parts went dirt cheap, two sets of headlights bringing $2 a set.

Mr. Cory, one of the Remington Company officers, paid $298 for a lot of auto frames and also bid in some metal rims. Three hundred of these rims were sold at prices averaging 26 cents. A well known lawyer, unmarried, purchased some useful household articles, such as rubber mats for $1.85. Sam Warts secured a vice and some tools for $9.

Altogether the sale was remarkable for the bargains secured in tools and automobile parts. About everything of the company's property has been cleaned up to satisfy creditors and several hundreds of dollars in executions will have been returned by the sheriff unsatisfied.

DAVE ROBERTSON. ROBERTSON SAID TO BE FASTEST MAN IN BASEBALL.

Some of the baseball experts who like to figure out the little details in baseball, think that Dave Robertson, of the New York Giants, is the fastest man in the national game. Some of them say that Robertson is faster than Ty Cobb on the bases and that he could easily lower Hans Lohr's record of 13.45 seconds for circling the bases.

Port Shotton, of the St. Louis Browns, is another fast man. When Shotton goes to bat the infielders usually draw in about ten feet. Shotton is so fast that an infielder playing the ordinary position cannot field a bouncer and throw to first fast enough to intercept Shotton.

A Mean Advantage.

In a breach of promise case the barrister who held the brief for injured beauty arranged that his fair client should be so placed that her charms should be well under the observation of the jury. He became a most pathetic appeal by directing their attention to her beauty and calling for justice upon the head of him who could wound the heart and betray the confidence of one so fair, concluding with a peroration of such pathos as to melt the court to tears. The counsel for the defendant then rose, and after paying the lady the compliment of admitting that it was impossible not to assent to the encomiums lavished upon her face he added that nevertheless he felt bound to ask the jury not to forget that she wore a wooden leg. Then he sat down. The important fact of which the fair plaintiff's counsel was unaware, was presently established, and the jury, feeling rather sheepish at their tears, assessed damages at the smallest amount.

M'GRAW HAS TROUBLE WITH OLD STATION

John McGraw as a player was one of the greatest third basemen in the history of baseball, and as a manager he has had more than his share of trouble with third base.

For many years Arthur Devlin guarded this corner about as well as anybody ever has guarded it, but of late years third base has given John J. plenty of worry. Temperamental Tillie Shafer had McGraw guessing as to the length of time he would stick with the Giants, and finally he did retire, just when he was being figured on to play the position regularly.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR MOWRY DAY OF SLOWBALL TWIRLER

Manager Robinson of Dodgers Believes Mike Has Lots of Good Baseball Left in Him.

Third Baseman Harry (Mike) Mowry, who has drawn unconditional releases in two successive seasons from clubs in different leagues, is to get another chance, and in the big show, too. He has been signed by the Brooklyn club, thanks to the friendship of Manager Wilbert Robinson. Both are residents of Baltimore and Robinson is known for his loyalty to his home town and fellow townsmen. It is not all a case of friendship, however. Robinson believes that Mowry will give him his best services and that doing that he may be a valuable member of the team. Mowry had a row with Roger Bresnahan when Roger managed the Cardinals that impaired his usefulness in St. Louis and he was shipped to Pittsburgh. He did not get along there and drew his release, enlisting with the Pittsburgh Feds. With the outlaws also he did not jibe and another release followed. In spite of all this he is regarded by many as a capable player, and has a surprising number of friends wherever he has played.

NOTES of the DIAMOND

The Louisville club has sold Pitcher Ross Reynolds to Denver of the Western league.

The Washington club has released Pitcher Marvin Goodwin to the Richmond Internationals.

The Tacoma Northwestern league club has closed a deal for Catcher Jack Roche of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Chattanooga club has released Wilson Collins, the former Vanderbilt university player who got a trial with the Boston Braves.

Manager Billy Smith of the Richmond Internationals is quoted as saying the deal with Atlanta for transfer of Shortstop Tommy McMillan to the Crackers is off.

Ally McWilliams, star of the champion Greystock basket ball five, who played baseball with Frank Baker at Upland last season, may get a try-out with the New York Americans this year.

Proved His Ability. Junior Partner: "I see you have engaged a new man. Is he a good salesman?" Senior Partner: "Good salesman? Great snakes! I had to send for the police to prevent him from talking me into taking him into partnership."

Daily Thought. Hope is the only good which is common to all men.—Thales.

Four Crops From Tea Plant. Tea leaves are gathered four times a year from the tea plant after its third year.

Charley Herzog was a great third baseman, but the temperaments of Charles and the Little Napoleon did not fit very well, and Herzog was passed along. Milton Stock proved a disappointment in 1914, and last season Hans Lohr failed to play up to expectations. Now Lohr has sustained an injury which may end his active career in the majors.

Brainard, placed on third after the injury, failed to impress John J., and was sent back to the Minors, and Bill McKechnie was secured to fill the vacant place.

Pitcher Who Hasn't Unusual Speed Has No More Chance in American League Organization.

Jimmy Burke has something to say about American league pitching that is worth passing on. Declares the peppy one: "The day of the slowball pitcher has passed. I don't care who he is, or what he has, a flinger who hasn't unusual speed has no chance in the American league any more. Absolutely the only ball that can get by in this circuit is a fast one with cayenne whiskers, whatever they are. An assortment of curves and floaters is all right to make variety, but a fast ball is the de luxe requirement these days."

NEW HURLERS GIVE PROMISE

Three Additions to Phillie Staff Are Adams, Fortune and Rhoades, All Right-Handers.

There has been a good deal said about Pat Moran, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, standing pat with his champions, but that is hardly in line with the facts. He has made a number of changes and added quite a bunch of recruits for tryouts, particularly in the way of pitchers. Three additions to the staff are Adams, Fortune, who made a fine record in North Carolina last year, and Rhoades, who was secured in a trade from Milwaukee. All are right-handers and all hope to become Alexanderes.

ADAMS ALLOWS BUT ONE HIT

Pittsburgh Pitcher Makes First Notable Performance of the National League Season.

The first notable pitching performance of the National League season was by "Babe" Adams of the Pirates against the Cardinals in the second game of the opening series, when he held the Cards to one hit, that a gift of liberal scoring. Snyder in the third inning hit a slow roller to second.

"Babe" Adams.

Schultz booted it awhile and then threw too late to get Snyder, a notoriously slow runner, at first. The Pirates actually claimed a no-hit game for Adams, but the St. Louis scorer couldn't see it that way and recorded Snyder as making a hit.

LEARN TO DECIDE QUICKLY.

It May Often Prove to Be a Great Help in Business Matters.

In the American Magazine is the story of a successful business man who attributes his success largely to his faculty for making quick decisions. "Once decided, you ought not to waste time. If a man decides rightly then he has a running start on rivals who hesitate. If he decides wrongly then he has discovered his blunder, backed up and is ready to start on even terms with the hesitating rival, for a man of decision can decide he is wrong as quickly as he can decide he is right. Also, in a great number of cases, the man who decides quickly may fail to decide the best way and still carry it through to success and even convince others he was right all the time. This has happened to me many times in cases where there were a number of ways in which a thing might be done.

"While we blunder inevitably I believe our batting average is higher than that of timid ones, and the rewards much greater. I do not think I have erred in 15 per cent of my decisions in business, and not in 5 per cent seriously.

"The great advantage of quick decision lies in the larger rewards that come to those who are bold, for it is bold to decide vital matters quickly. The timid and the hesitating get small profits."

Character.

Character, instead of being a means to an end, is itself, the end to be accomplished; and those to whom the world will always look up as its most magnificent characters, have been those who were, in themselves superior to the things of circumstance and environment. They were men who, come what might, held true to their own best selves, and the highest interpretation of the visions vouchsafed them.

ALBANY SPECIALIST

Makes Remarkable Cures of Chronic Diseases

Will be in Kingston

FRIDAY, MAY 12th

AT 340 BROADWAY

Dr. Swinburne of Albany.

Cures Difficult Cases Without Surgery

The craze for cutting is still growing. A great many doctors advise operations when entirely unnecessary. Not that it is always done to make more money from the case, but because many physicians have not given sufficient time to study and research to enable them to make correct diagnosis of obscure diseases, or to understand how to treat such cases successfully with improved medical methods. Too many doctors merely accept the ideas and follow the practice of other physicians and advise operations because it is a popular medical craze. Some doctors will even perform operations, when they know that other treatment would produce a cure. Surgery may be necessary in some cases, but many serious cases, where physicians had declared an operation was the only means which would offer a hope of saving life, the use of the proper treatment did produce a cure, and the patient restored to health, without the danger of an operation. A recent case will prove of interest. A young lady, supposed to be suffering from appendicitis. Four doctors, two of whom were prominent surgeons, had advised the patient that an operation was absolutely necessary. A thorough examination found it was not a case of appendicitis at all, but one of obstruction of the bile ducts and impaction of the gall bladder. Treatment was given immediately which would remove the obstruction and reduce the inflammation and in a few days the patient was entirely relieved of all suffering and has since made a complete recovery. There are many similar cases where operations were performed and the results often times proved fatal, where a correct diagnosis and the proper treatment would have saved human life and suffering. Cases of gall stone can often be cured without operation, as well as many other troubles, including special diseases of women. If patients are advised to submit to the dangers of surgery, they should not consent until they obtain the opinion of Dr. Swinburne, a specialist who believes more in the efficiency of improved treatment rather than the wild craze for operations.

FEATS OF FANATICS

Dervishes of the Orient and Their Curious Practices

SEEM INSENSIBLE TO PAIN.

These Religious Enthusiasts Cut and slash themselves, and Under Certain Conditions No Blood Flows—Magical Cures by the Sheikh.

Much has been written on the subject of the astounding things that are done by dervishes and the apparent insensibility to pain and injury that their fanaticism gives them, but the vivid account given by a writer in Blackwood's of some of these facts witnessed by himself cannot fail to prove of interest.

"In Constantinople you may see at any time howling dervishes, who howl professionally in their worship, and in some whirling dervishes, who similarly whirl instead of howl. And upon the road and in villages and country towns of the Turkish empire are to be met dervishes of the mendicant order—wild eyed, austere men carrying bowl and bottle as, who wander about to places where most alms may be found. But those dervishes who lacerate themselves as the aim of their ecstasy are, I think, to be found in any district near the coast or easy of access. In only one small town, a long way in the interior of Asia Minor, did I ever see one of their performances, and then it was in the way of a favor."

After describing the long processes of preparation by which the necessary "atmosphere" is obtained, the writer goes on:

"Presently two men left the semicircle of dervishes and stood before the sheik. On them the preparation had been done and they were ready to begin laceration. The sheik licked the blades of two thin dagger-like knives with his tongue and handed them to the devotees. Each immediately pressed the knife through his own cheeks. It went in at one side and the point came out at the other. Meanwhile the swordsmen leaped and the semicircle roared and swayed with redoubled energy.

"Again the sheik licked two knives and handed them to the men, and again they pushed them through their cheeks, this time in the opposite direction. No blood flowed, and the operation looked as harmless, once you had seen it done, as stabbing a Dutch cheese. The sheik drew out the knives, wet the ball of his thumb upon his tongue, clapped it on the holes, and no holes could be seen, but merely white scars."

"Now, one who has not seen these or similar things done may think that some slight of hand took place, or, failing that possibility, that I imagined these sights, being under strong influence so to do. I can only offer the evidence of my senses. I was within a distance of two or three yards when the cheeks were pierced, looked at them from two feet with the knives still in position, and at the same distance looked at the white scars that a few seconds before had been noticeable holes. If I was hypnotized so were all of us, for we saw alike."

"When the display with knives was over two other men came forward as candidates for the spiked balls. The upper and lower points of the spikes were licked by the sheik and played upon. The lower point was placed in the open palm of one hand, the upper point was capped by the open palm of the other, and then by a slight circular movement of the upper hand the ball was rotated violently. As it did so short lengths of chain attached to the circumference spread out and acted as a flywheel. With the balls spinning in this fashion the men began to leap, throwing them into the air, catching them with the point on an open palm and always keeping up the spinning."

"It was clever in its way, but no more, and I was thinking it a simple trick when one man dashed the spiked ball forcibly into his head. The other fellow immediately followed by thrusting his into his neck. Both balls fell over and hung suspended with the point remaining in the flesh. These wounds immediately drew blood. Blood drawing, however, was not in the game. It showed something amiss—in sufficient faith or preparation or both—and the sheik hastened to staunch it. His thumb went first to his inflexible tongue and then to the wounds. The flow ceased under the application, and when men took up the balls. Sometimes they drew blood and sometimes not, but all the wounds made were immediately closed by the sheik and left only white scars. And these, like the other scars, whether you believe it or not, presently faded out of sight."

"It was nearing midnight when all was over. In the bazaar the next morning I recognized one of those who had used the spiked balls on the previous evening. He now appeared as an open-faced young fellow of eighteen or nineteen, with a smile that he could not suppress. He said he worked in the iron bazaar hard by, making rough blades and other ironwork. And while he stood there, smiling and ingenious, it seemed an effort of mind to think of him as a fanatical dervish of the previous night's scene."

HOW TO START A FOUR-

TRY PLANT WITH

FIVE DOLLARS—Five dollars

will start anybody in the poultry

business and produce profitable results if judiciously invested.

The man or woman who invests better invest in twenty to twenty-five day old chicks at a cost of $8.75, having $1.25 for material to make a home-made brooder.

brooder. If twenty-out of twenty-five chicks survive babyhood

there will probably be twelve cockerels and eight pullets. Sell the cockerels in the summer at a pair. Use the money received for them to purchase a good rooster of whatever breed the chickens belong to. Mate him to the eight pullets the following spring, and you should be able to raise at least 200 chickens, besides sides having had eggs from year pullets during the winter. They should have begun to lay in October or November, and their eggs can be sold or used on the family table until March or early

April, after which time, when they are mated to the rooster,

the eggs must be used for incubation only.

The following November you should have from 100 to 150 pullets and be getting fifteen or twenty dozen eggs a week, which at an average of 40 cents a dozen will bring in from $6 to $8 a week, and your little poultry

plant will be firmly established on a paying basis with the promise of yielding $50 to $60 a month

by the third season.

CARE OF RUGS.

How to Keep Your Floor Coverings So They Will Last.

It is inadvisable to attempt to clean valuable rugs yourself for obvious reasons, but during spring months the best way to clean rugs at home is to turn them right side down and tap them gently with a light flexible stick or piece of rubber on the wrong side and then sweep them with a dampened broom.

Do not under any circumstances use the ubiquitous vacuum cleaner on a rare rug, since it loosens the nap when drawing out the dust. Rugs should never be packed away for summer where they cannot have monthly inspection at least. The washing of rare rugs is a simple matter for the expert, but nearly impossible for the housekeeper. Never fold a handsome rug when putting it away. Roll it in sheets of newspaper and camphor between, and then wrap it in newspapers and sew it up tightly in an enveloping sheet of nonwool covering.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

How to Pass For 'Being Intelligent Even if You Aren't.

The most intelligent people and the most beautiful are those who see things and get an immense pleasure out of them. An exhibition of indifference to things about you is not an evidence of intelligence. Intelligent people are those whose eyes are open, and that is the way to become intelligent. Such people, also, are the most interesting, sometimes so much so that, even though they lack physical beauty, that is forgotten in admiration for their intellect.

The victim of indifference victimizes all about her. Her friends may look upon her and admire her beauty, but if she is decidedly uninteresting even a little of her society is generally an overdose.

JUST DIP 'EM.

How to Keep Your Garden Labels From Rotting and Fading.

Gardeners frequently have trouble with plant labels rotting. The labels when used in the garden are subject to wet and heat during the season, causing the portion that is in the ground to rot; the label falls over and is lost, and the gardener loses the name of the plants. A good way to preserve wooden garden labels is to soak them in a solution of sulphate of iron. Dry the labels and then soak them in a strong solution of lime-water. This results in the formation of insoluble sulphate of lime in the wood and preserves the labels from rotting.

HOW TO RID THE CAN-

RY OF VERMIN.

Sometimes a canary will droop

and stop his song, his vitality

preyed upon by lice almost microscopic. One of the simplest as well as the surest ways to relieve him is to hang a piece of soft moss over his cage nights, in the morning removing the several little black dots that rest upon it. This process repeated for a week or ten days will quite rid the bird of vermin, and he will take up his song again.

How to Plant Seed to Get the Best

Results.

A good rule to follow in planting seed is to put it in the ground at a depth about four times the diameter of the individual seed. If the soil is dry it should be pressed down firmly after sowing. In transplanting, also, the soil should be pressed tightly over the roots.

A SOLDIER'S EASTER MORN

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

We who held the south end of the bridge—a picket of a hundred men—were cooking our suppers when a sentry fired his musket to give the alarm, and next moment we caught sight of horsemen on the turnpike beyond the bridge.

"Fall in! Fall in!" shouted our officer in wild excitement.

Up on the hillside a thousand men, women and children looked down and held their breath and felt the blood tingle their finger ends. They could see the long line stretching back for half a mile—500 men to 100—and, though they were our enemies, they felt pity for us.

"Steady, now, and fire low!"

There was a crash and a roar of iron shot feet as the first squadron struck the bridge, and then a hundred jets of flame leaped forth to meet the troops, and a hundred bullets led the jets. Down went horses and men—down in one great heap of dead and dying which other horses could not leap over—and we rose up and swung our hats and cheered. Up on the hillside men turned pale, women wept and children cried out in horror at war's spectacle. We heard the enemy's bugles blow the order to retreat and dismount, and then we looked to our officers for orders to fall back.

"Hold the bridge to the last!" had been the order to the captain, and he meant to obey to the letter.

The smoke of our volley still floated over the town when we heard the tramp, tramp, tramp of soldiers' footsteps on the flinty road, and between the chimneys of the barricade we saw lines of dismounted men coming forward at a swinging pace. A moment later it was double quick, and as we opened a scattering fire they reached the heap of dead and dying and made a barricade of it. Five—ten—fifteen minutes of sharp firing, in which three or four men were killed on both sides, and then the enemy swarmed over the barricade and charged. The long, narrow bridge was like a tunnel. They were crowded together, and our bullets could not go astray. A crash of musketry—a great puff of blue black smoke—and then all was silent—all but the sobs of women and the walls of children on the hillside. It was war, but only a skirmish. The living and unhurt regained shelter of the barricade, and ten minutes later the enemy was crossing at the ford above and below, and we were being fired on from 'in front and on both flanks. Then the order came to fall back. There had been a hundred of us at the bridge. Only seventy retreated up the hillside, sullenly, grudgingly and firing as we went, and the noncombatants scattered to right and left and cried out as the bullets whistled over their heads or plowed up the ground at their feet. We fought from behind the stone walls, from behind houses and stores and barns and sheds. We stung the pursuing enemy at every turn and left his dead on every rod of the open streets. By and by, as we fought singly or in groups and when our dead and wounded were everywhere, there came the order:

"To the church! To the church! Rally on the church!"

Some one led the way—all others followed. On the crest of the hill was the old stone church, built long before any one dreamed of fratricidal war. For half an hour peace reigned. The enemy was gathering up the wounded—friend and foe alike—and carrying them into the quaint old houses to be cared for by the frightened and sobbing women. For half an hour, and then the trace was broken and carbines volleyed and the bullets thundered against the heavy doors and flew in at the windows and were buried in the walls and ceiling, beam and joist. We fought back—we killed and wounded. An hour went by and then there were only thirty of us left. Surrender would have been honorable, but no one thought of surrender. By and by the sun went down and darkness fell. Some rested while others fought on, but as we rested and fought there was a feeling of awe over all. Men uttered a shriek as the bullets struck them—cried out just once. Then the awe of God came upon them and they were silent, or if they wept and prayed we did not hear them. Until midnight no one slept. Then came silence and peace and men fell down and died.

their eyes and forgot war and its horrors and dreamed of happy homes far away.

Then the impatient enemy made a sudden rush upon us in the darkness, and in an instant war had returned and death was stalking abroad again. It was a fierce attack, but we repelled it and sank down once more, and when our eyes opened again daylight shone in at the broken window. Hark! It is the bell above us ringing out glad notes of Easter morning. In a little room to the left of the altar is a man pulling at the rope. We stare at him. And when he has pulled the rope a hundred times he comes down and tears the barricade away from the doors and throws them wide open, saying never a word to us—we raising no hand to restrain him.

"Christ is risen! Peace on earth and good will to men!"

And so it was peace and good will. Hands were held out to us—hands were uncovered—kind words were spoken. Two hundred men lay dead and wounded—half of them our own.

How He Won.

"Simplest thing in the world," he said. "I always did the reverse of what everybody else was doing. If everybody bought I sold—prices were high. If everybody sold I bought—prices were low."

AUTOMOBILE SUIT STILL ON TRIAL

Professional etiquette bobbed up again this morning in supreme court before Judge Chester in the trial of Mrs. Maud Van De Mark's $15,000 damage action against Warren E. Burns, a New York dealer in essential oils. Attorney Robert C. Moore, who appears for the plaintiff, gave his card to Van De Mark at the scene of the automobile accident on Merrick Road, Long Island, immediately after the accident according to Jesse J. Harris, witness for the defense.

"Did he say 'what's the trouble—I'm a lawyer?'" asked Amos Van Etten of counsel with R. L. Pettigrew for the defendant. Harris answered in the affirmative.

"Did he brush people aside as he came up?"

"Yes," was the reply.

Harris, who said he was a hotel and theatrical man of Far Rockaway, told of going to New York on the day of the accident to see about a dress suit and before he returned he ran into a lawsuit.

Interested in his tailor then the accident which he witnessed but corroborated other witnesses for the defense in saying that the Van De Mark car shot out of line to pass a brewery truck and then struck a telephone pole.

The defendant's car, it is claimed, while going in the opposite direction was brought to a stop before striking the Van De Mark car.

Mrs. Van De Mark, who resides in Ellenville, told of her injuries on the stand Monday and for the first time told how her chauffeur, Harry Martin, helped Mrs. Van De Mark from her car after the smash-up and how the latter appeared to be all right.

Martin said that his car was going at from 12 to 15 miles an hour. Other witnesses put the speed a few miles faster. He claimed he brought his car to a stop within 3 to 5 feet of the instant the Van De Mark car.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A surprise was tendered Miss Gertrude Newkirk at her home, No. 52 Lafayette Avenue, by the members of her Sunday school class on Monday evening. Miss Newkirk was the recipient of a number of handsome gifts from her class. During the evening refreshments were served and the evening was spent in a delightful manner by everyone. Those present were Maude Heiser, Margaret Rieley, Wilma Abrams, Eva Palen, Jessie Craig, Blanche Goble, Elizabeth Cockburn and Minnie Swart.

On Friday, May 5, Laura N. North, of Grand street, entertained a number of little friends in honor of her 11th birthday. The afternoon was delightfully spent in playing games until 1 o'clock, when refreshments were served, after which the guests departed for their homes. Gladys Mulligan carrying off first prize in the donkey contest and Dorothy Ackerman the consolation prize. The other guests were Myrtle V. Boss, Ruth Adams, Beatrice Lord, Loreta Bowry, Esther Bird, Florence Bird, Dolly Raymer, Dora H. Pratt, Claudia H. North, James D. North and Laura North.

Miss S. Ethel W. Warren and Albert D. Kniffin, both of Marlborough, were married at the parsonage of St. John's M. E. Church, Newburgh, on Saturday, April 29, by the Rev. Frank Young.

Hoffman-Van Schack.

At the Methodist parsonage, saugerties Sunday afternoon, Rev. F. M. Turrentine, the pastor, united in marriage George Hoffman of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Miss Elizabeth Van Schack of Saugerties. Mrs. Hoffman is a sister of Mrs. Burdette Wolven, also of Saugerties.

Piano Recital Tomorrow.

You are cordially invited to attend the piano recital to be given tomorrow, Wednesday, afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Kingston Conservatory of Music in the Crosby Building, corner of Wall and John streets. This recital will be given by the pupils of the artists' class, under the instruction of Mrs. J. Irving Wood of New York city.

Full Rehearsal Tomorrow Night.

There will be a full rehearsal of the entire chorus for the coming music festival held tomorrow, Wednesday, evening at 8 o'clock at Symphony Hall. It is hoped that every person expecting to sing in the big chorus at the rehearsal tomorrow evening. Those who are attending find the music most inspiring and with the exception of one or two choruses not as difficult to sing as was "The Creation," given last year.

Birthday Party.

A very enjoyable surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Entrott, 75 West Union street, on Sunday evening in honor of Mr. Entrott's 37th birthday. A bounteous supper was served, the table being spread for twenty-four guests. The evening was enjoyed by several selections on the Victrola. Dancing was also enjoyed during the evening. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Radel, Vernon and Marguerite Radel, Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith, Leo and Katherine Smith, Miss Anna Porch, Miss Marguerite McGowan, Miss Katherine Smith, Miss Theresa Wolf, William Smith, Jr., Joseph Smith, John Hogan, Winfield Entrott and Earl DeWitt.

Eighty-Fanning.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Fanning on Van Buren street, was the scene on Saturday afternoon, at five o'clock, of a charming home wedding, when Miss Jessie M. Fanning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fanning, and David T. Fighney, formerly of Kingston, were married by the Rev. George M. Cranston, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church. The ceremony was used. The home was prettily decorated with ferns, palms and pink and white carnations. To the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Mae Egan of Jersey City, a cousin of the bride, at the piano, and Miss Esther Carl, violinist, the bride in a beautiful gown of white tulle and tulle, wearing a tulle veil caught with lilies of the valley, and carrying bride roses, entered the parlor, escorted by her father who gave her away. Miss Helen Williams in a charming costume of yellow silk, and carrying yellow roses, was the maid of honor. R. Van Gansbeek of this city acting as the best man. At the close of the ceremony, "O Promise Me," and "Perfect Day," were sung by Miss Jeanette Egan. Following the offering of congratulations, a fine wedding repast was served, and later Mr. and Mrs. Fighney left town for their honeymoon. On their return they will make their home in Albany where Mr. Fighney is engaged in business. The bride has a wide circle of friends in this city, especially among the employees of the A. D. Rose store where she has acted as cashier for some time. There were many costly and elegant wedding gifts of silver, cut glass, linen, bric-a-brac, etc., the employees of the A. D. Rose store presenting the bride with an elegant set of table linen. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fanning of Passaic, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Egan and daughter from Jersey City, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Egan and daughter of Rahway, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. James Reid of Waterford, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. George Egan, Mrs. Charles Egan, Mrs. William F. Fanning, Miss Helen Fanning and Mrs. Benjamin Fanning of Glendon, N. Y.

There was a trial on in a justice court in Texas. A witness for the plaintiff was on the stand and was giving damaging evidence against the defendant, who was represented by two old practitioners, one nearly deaf and the other nearly blind. The nearly deaf one said to his associate: "What did the witness say?" The nearly blind one replied: "What witness?"—Case and Comment.

Dunston's Revenge

An Evil Intention
Changed to a Good
One

By
CLARISSA MACKIE

A man and a woman were riding on horseback over the broad acres of a western ranch. As they cantered on the girl chatted pleasantly, while the man listened, making brief replies. He was thinking of another matter than the one of which she was speaking. Suddenly he reined in his horse and facing her said, more as if in anger than in love:

"Rose, I love you. I've loved you a long while. Will you be my wife?"

The girl, startled at such a proposition made in such a tone, drew back.

"I can't, Ralph. I can't. I would if I could, but I don't love you."

"You can love me if you want to," he replied bitterly.

"Indeed, I can't."

"Then there isn't a chance for me?"

asked Ralph Dunston hoarsely as he looked away.

Rose's brown eyes grew very pitiful, and she laid her little gloved hand on Dunston's bridle rein.

"I'm sorry, Ralph," she whispered in a distressed tone. "I'm sorry."

"That's enough," he interrupted sharply. "I suppose it's Bert Slater. But I'll see he doesn't get you."

"Well, honey, what's bothering you tonight?" asked Rufus Weldon of his daughter, as she sat in dreamy silence before the fire.

Rose sighed and then flashed a smile at her father. She went over and knelt beside his chair, leaning her dark head against his shoulder.

"Nothing much, dad," she answered after long silence—"only—only—well, father, it's Bert Slater."

"The deuce!" exploded Rufus in pretended surprise. "You don't mean to say my foreman has the nerve?"

Rose's hand covered his lips.

"I love him, father," she whispered. His arms went around closely, and it was thus that Bert Slater found them.

When he came in Rufus extended a hand to include him in the little circle.

"The matter seems settled, son," said Rufus humorously.

The period of Rose Weldon's engagement to Bert Slater was marked by anxious days and nights. She had not told her lover of Dunston's threat, nor had she confided in her father, for in either case one or both of them would have gone forth to administer punishment to the disappointed cowboy.

Then suddenly one day Rufus Weldon met death, and the horse that had thrown him had to be shot. Left alone on the ranch, with her nearest relatives some maiden aunts in Massachusetts, Rose gave heed to Bert Slater's pleading and soon they were married.

Slater had invested some money in the ranch, and as Rose was her father's sole heir, husband and wife carried on the business in the same thrifty manner that had made Rufus Weldon comfortably rich as compared to many of his neighbors.

Of Ralph Dunston they saw little. When they did meet him Rose was all aquiver with anxiety lest the dark browed man engage her cool tempered husband in an argument that might foment trouble and end in the gun play that would give Dunston his long cherished opportunity to put an end to Bert's life and thus carry out his scheme of revenge.

But Dunston held himself well in hand. If he had little to say no one could marvel at his taciturnity in the presence of his successful rival, for the whole county knew that Ralph Dunston had levelled Rose to distraction, and many people said that he had had a fair chance to gain her affections had not Slater come on from the east to join Rufus Weldon in the business.

But it had been a banner year in the cattle raising country, and every one was so happy and contented that no one gave heed to Ralph and his cherished revenge. Outwardly he was gay and carefree, and no one knew that his insouciance covered a heart brooding blackly over his coveted revenge.

As the months dragged by Rose gradually forgot Dunston's threatened revenge, and she dismissed it entirely from her mind when they placed her baby in her arms. Rufus Weldon Slater they named the little one, and in the joy of motherhood Rose included the whole world in her great warm heart.

When Dunston heard about the little Rufus he went for a long ride through the purple sagebrush, and when he came back his lips were smiling, but murder lurked in his black eyes.

The snow was falling thickly on that winter evening when Ralph Dunston set out to encompass his revenge. It was the very night for his purpose. Two halfbreed Indians slouched after him on wily horses, and one of these blundered rascals was to draw Rufus Slater from the house on some pretensions errand while the other kidnaped Rose's little son. It was a very crudely planned affair, after all, and showed the effect of long months of brooding over his favored wrongs. Ralph was desperate now. He felt that by depriving Rose and Slater of their first-born he could cause them greater pain than by simply taking Bert's life. He wanted Slater to suffer, too, and in death there was only release.

A light burned in the house, and a shadow flitted across the window shade. The bunkhouse was in total darkness. Dunston had chosen his night well, for it was the occasion of a big ball at Red Top, and there was not a soul about the place save the two Chinese cooks, and they were asleep in the little hut which they occupied together near the corral.

Just as Dunston rode up to the doorstep to peer into the window the door was flung wide open, and he started back.

Rose Slater stood in the doorway peering up at him like one distracted.

"Oh, Ralph," she cried in a relieved tone. "I am so glad it is you! I was afraid it might be some one I couldn't trust. Bert has broken his leg. There isn't a man about the place, and baby has the croup. He will die if you can't get the doctor here. Oh!" She leaned against the doorpost as Dunston slipped from his horse and rushed past her into the house.

"Come in and shut the door," he commanded gruffly.

"Where's the baby?" he asked curiously.

She pointed to the sofa drawn close to the fire and then snatched the bundle to her breast, rocking to and fro in helpless fear. From the bundle came hoarse, choking sounds.

Ralph Dunston had been the oldest of twelve children, and he had seen his mother handle croupy babies in the distant past. It is remarkable how tenacious these home memories are, in the breasts of the hardest of men.

"Don't you know what to do for the baby?" he asked sharply.

"I've given him croup medicine," he began Rose helplessly, when the big man tossed his hat into a corner and strode into the kitchen, where Hop Slater's fire was carefully laid for the next morning. A copper kettle of water on the stove was quite warm, and in a trice Dunston had lighted the kettling in the stove and drawn the big kettle over the flames. He sought and found the baby's tin bathtub and placed it on two chairs before the sitting room fire, just as he had seen his mother do in that faraway past.

Once he stepped outside to send the wondering halfbreeds scurrying back to Red Top for the doctor, and once he ran upstairs and took a look at Bert Slater, who was lying white and still on the bed. He examined the injured leg and found that Rose had put it in splints formed of an umbrella and two of her father's heavy canes. It would do until the doctor came. The baby needed first attention.

He held the baby while at his direction the distracted mother flew here and there, gathering flannels and mustard. Then the hot water was poured into the bath and the mustard added, as Dunston had watched his mother do, and finally the choking and gasping baby was gently lowered into the bath.

Half an hour later little Rufus was sleeping soundly, wrapped in warm blankets. Ralph Dunston awkwardly held the soft bundle while Rose, crying softly with relief, put away the bath and then went to attend to her husband.

The doctor came while Ralph still sat there.

"Hello, Dunston—helping out? That's a good fellow," was the doctor's greeting. Then Rose told the physician of the sudden attack and of the opportune appearance of Ralph Dunston. Dr. Finch nodded gravely, examined the baby and then patted Dunston on the shoulder.

"Good, good, Dunston! you saved the baby's life! Noble work, my man," he said significantly as he turned away, for he, too, knew Dunston's secret.

Dunston flushed and bent his face above the baby's rosy cheek. Rufus turned his head sleepily, sighed and tucked a velvety hand in Ralph's neck. The young man sat there, paralyzed with fear lest the baby should remove the trustful little fingers. Little tricks of warmth ran around his heart, and seemed to melt all the hardness and the bitterness that had bound it in an icy crust. Desire for revenge vanished never to return; love for Rose Slater became an almost forgotten incident. The Slater baby seemed to fill the horizon. Just to hold that wonderful little form close to his heart, just to feel the little helpless fingers clutch him confidently, just to know that the little breathing atom of humanity needed him, might grow to love him in time, was enough for Ralph Dunston.

Rose came back to the room, her eyes shining softly, as she saw Ralph Dunston's transformed countenance. He smiled upon her impersonally. She was only the baby's mother.

"Flow is Bert?" he asked.

"Doing splendidly. The doctor says he must be careful and that it means a good many weeks of idleness. Bert wants me to ask you if you can't help him out here. Some one must take charge. He needs some one he can trust. He says if you can, why, when he gets around once more he would like you to stay on as foreman. Will you?"

"Will it?" Dunston unconsciously repeated the question. He told himself that if he remained he must confess to Slater his evil intentions that night—he would start clear with him. Well, that would be hard, but he could do it. Then, there was the baby. He could see Rufus every day—could ride him on his back—play with him—later, teach him to ride a pony.

"Sure, I'll stay," he said heartily, and as he spoke he bent his head and his lips swept the pure cheek of the little one.

"I'm so glad," said Rose softly, as she took the baby from him. "I know he's going to be awfully fond of his Uncle Ralph."

And Ralph Dunston slipped out of the house, as one who leaves a sacred shrine.

A Changed Conception.

"What's your opinion of Bommarter?"

"Well, when I first met him he impressed me as being a leader of men, a 10,000 volt human dynamo, a clarion voiced car who would break no opposition, but when I met him the second time, in his office, I sized him up for a passivestomous mouse."

"Where did you meet him the first time?"

"On the telephone."—New York Times.

MONEY IN SALONIKI.

Why the Market Glimpses of It With Produce a Near Riot.

In normal times, if Saloniki is ever normal, she has a population of 130,000, and every one of those 130,000 is personally interested in any one else who engages or may be about to engage in a money transaction. In New York if a horse falls down there is at once an audience of a dozen persons. In Saloniki the downfall of a horse is nobody's business, but a copper coin changing hands is everybody's. Of this local characteristic John T. McCutcheon and I made a careful study, and the result of our investigations produced certain statistics.

If in Saloniki you buy a newspaper from a newsboy, of the persons passing you will stop; if at an open shop you buy a package of cigarettes five people will look over your shoulder; if you pay your cab driver his fare you block the sidewalk, and if you try to change a 100 franc note you cause a riot. In each block there are nearly a half dozen money changers. They sit in little shops as narrow as a doorway, and in front of them is a showcase filled with all the moneys of the world.

It is not alone the sight of your 100 franc note that enchants the crowd. That collects the crowd, but what holds the crowd is that it knows there are twenty different kinds of money, all current in Saloniki, into which your note can be changed. And they know the money changer knows that and that you do not. So each man advises you—not because he does not want to see you cheated (between you and the money changer he is neutral), but because he can no more keep out of a money deal than can a fly pass a sugar bowl.

The men on the outskirts of the crowd ask, "What does he offer?"

The lucky ones in the front row seats call back, "A hundred and eighteen drachmas." The rear ranks shout with indignation: "It is robbery!"

It is because he changes his money in Venizelos street!" "He is paying the money changer's rent!" "In the Jewish quarter they are giving nineteen!" "He is too lazy to walk two miles for a drachma!" Then let him go to the Greek Papanastasiou!—Richard Harding Davis in Scribner's.

FRANCE IS VERY GREEN.

Every Possible Shade Is Shown in Its Amazing Vegetation.

It might fairly be said that the general impression France as a whole leaves upon the beholder is—green. Perpetually moist of climate—except in the south—endowed with heavy and continuous rainfalls and having a temperature which is astonishingly even year in and year out, the country is like an enormous hothouse.

The result is a study in greens of every conceivable and inconceivable shade. Verdure and foliage range from greens that are gray or black to greens that are hardly more than yellow. From the hardy pastures high upon the sides of the towering Pelvoux range, thousands of feet above the sea, to the cactus and agaves and olives that grow at the water's edge the verdant nuances are a revelation in rural coloring.

But France is not all green either. That is only the background, the filler, as it were, for a warm toned picture full of high lights, touched with the gold of grain, the ruddy tiles of ancient roofs, the fiery spatter of poppies, the tawny flood of a river or the steely thread of a brook, and on the gleistering southern shore, with cliffs as red as any soil New Jersey boasts, water like melted sapphires, villas covered with majolica tiles that make the beholder rub his eyes and wonder if he is dreaming the amazing ineffectiveness of style and color that strive to but cannot shatter the harmony of creation.—National Geographic Magazine.

A Miniature Holland.

England has a Holland in miniature near the mouth of the Thames. Canvey Island, beloved of holiday makers, was until three centuries ago almost submerged, but in 1623 a Dutch dyker named Croppenburg erected a high sea wall and cut drains, which converted it into rich and arable land. Many of the Dutch workmen engaged in the work settled on the reclaimed land, and the Dutch aspect of the island is preserved until this day.—London Chronicle.

So Shy!

"That's a nasty cut on your temple," an employer said to his clerk. "How did it happen?"

"I had words with my wife," the clerk answered.

"Your wife gave you that?" exclaimed the employer. "And she used to be such a shy girl!"

"So she is now," said the clerk. "She's always shy, and she never misses."—Washington Star.

Set Her Thinking.

"I dress expensively. Do you think you could do as well for me in that respect as father does?"

"Perhaps so," said the young man. "Still, I shouldn't like to go around looking as shabby as he does."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

At the Boarding House.

"Is this beef too rare for you, Mr. Simpkins?"

"Well, since you ask me, Mrs. Skinner, I would like it a little oftener."—Baltimore American.

FARM BOUNTY

Goosings Should Have Tender Care Be Dampened Slightly.

Goose eggs may be hatched under the latter and eight to ten under the first. They require about 30 days to hatch. Goosings should have tender grass to eat from the first. Give them a mash of bran, cornmeal and any other ground grains that are fed to chickens. Rolled oats, whole or in parts, make best feed for the first few days. All mash should be dampened slightly.

Be sure to not allow any lumps of salt to get in. Give the goosings plenty of exercise and room on account of leg weakness. When two months old give them whole grain. Those intended for table use should be confined in restricted quarters for about two weeks before killing and all the cornmeal or corn moistened they can eat.

FIVE KILLED IN DYNAMITE PLANT

New York, May 9.—Five men are known to have been killed and scores injured by an explosion of dynamite in the mixing plant of the Atlas Powder Company at Landing, N. J., near Lake Hopatcong, this afternoon. Fire followed the explosion.

Many houses in the vicinity of the plant were wrecked.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The Infant son of George and Catherine Solosorick of Cementon, died in that place Sunday, May 7.

Norma Terry Harcourt, wife of Alden J. Harcourt, died this morning at her home at Mount Vernon, N. Y., after a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Albert Terry and after her marriage to Mr. Harcourt continued to reside here until several years ago when she and her husband removed to New Jersey and later to Mount Vernon. She is survived by her husband, two children, two brothers, David Terry and Jay Terry, both of this city, and Cora, wife of A. S. Staples. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Rehrey, wife of James Kober, died Sunday at her home, No. 17 Johnston street, Newburgh, after an illness of several months. She was born in Rondout and was in her 70th year. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons by a previous marriage as follows: George F. Lawrence and Adam M. Rehrey and also one sister, Mrs. Mary Berger of Kingston. The funeral was held today from the late residence and at St. Patrick's Church where a high mass of requiem was offered. The interment was in Calvary cemetery, Newburgh.

Photography Under Fire.

The Lake Katrine Grange has arranged with J. H. Hare, the world renowned war photographer of Lehigh Weekly, to give an illustrated talk on "Photography Under Fire" at the Grange Hall, Saturday, May 13, at 8 p. m. Mr. Hare has just returned from Saloniki after eighteen months' residence in Europe, during which time he has seen most of the places and many of the people whose names are familiar to us. In 1911 he was with Villa in Mexico, and has pictures of the bandit which he made at that time. During the Russo-Japanese war he was at the front and recorded many thrilling experiences, but according to his own statement none compare with the bombardment of Antwerp, where he had the closest call of his life. After the lecture Mr. Hare will be pleased to meet any who may desire to become acquainted with him, or answer any questions bearing on his talk.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

The Answer is—"Who was it said some time ago."

"I'll make Ty Cobb look sick!"

"Who was it said—"The fence I'll bust."

"Just watch me turn the trick."

"Who was it said—"Like does I'll run."

"And mebbe faster'n that."

"Who was it said—"Just lamp me boys."

"A demon with the bat."

Shrewdness of Huggins.

When the time came for Miller Huggins, the Cardinal manager, to shave down his roster to 21 men, he discovered 23 players that he wanted to keep. So the David Harum of baseball suspended two players, which left only 21 on the active list—a trick that is within the law.

When Huggins decides to use the two suspended players he will lift the ban and suspend two others.

Want Longer Links.

Golfing experts feel that the courses should be lengthened. The coming of the speed ball has made the driving part of the game too easy.

"The link makers allowed 150 yards for a tee drive when they designed the courses," said Gil Nicholas, the New York open champion. "A few years ago it was quite a trick to drive 140 or 200 yards. Now the worst duffer can do it because the new golf balls are so fast. Just a light tap will zip them 100 or 125 yards. A wallop on the nose sends them 200 or 250 yards."

"Joe Birmingham is now a minor league manager," declares a headliner. Well, wasn't that Joe's job while with the 1914 and 1915 Cleveland club?

"Joe Stecher's legs are so powerful," says an admirer of the Western rafter, "that he could take a stone-millar between them and reduce it to violet talcum powder with two or three squeezes."

Boy! Page Methuselah!

Abie Attell wants to do an Ajax by defying the lightning of youth. The veteran ex-champion thinks he is almost as good as he ever was and wants to meet Benny Leonard, the reigning lightweight aspirant, in a ten round bout in New York.

"If possible, I'd like to have the round limited to one and one-half minutes each," said Attell. "I realize I haven't the stamina of old, but I feel sure that in ten rounds of ninety seconds each I could earn a clean victory over Leonard."

Ohio's New Claim to Fame.

Ohio possesses two novelties in the harness game. One is Colby Turner, the "argless wonder," who, drives his pacers and trotters by holding the reins in his teeth. And Turner has been amazingly successful.

The other entry is Miss Vesta Tibbs. She trains and drives her own horses being one of the two women in the United States who do so. She competes in races and last summer scored many brackets for her horses, taking down quite a bulky bunch of winnings.

Cubs Spring Surprise.

Those who began the count over the Cubs after they got seven straight wallopings from the Phillies during the training camp season have paused in their chanting. The form reversal of the Cubs since the season began has been a surprise. The other clubs feared the Chicagoans would be "pie"—but taint so, Oscar.

Hot Liners.

(By Frank G. Menke.)

Gone are those days, those golden days.

The time beyond recall.

The era when those Giants guys really did play ball.

And gone also are those old days when Connie lorded all.

The days when those Athletic guys led from spring time till fall.

The Indians have played to almost as many spectators during the first four weeks this season as they did all during 1915. Which shows every one loves a winner.

The Waseda ball team has arrived on the coast. Better put the Japs against the Giants. They would surely win.

Those pesky Dodgers refuse to relinquish the lead. Even Alexander the Great had no terrors for them.

It was a day for the downfall of stars. Walter Johnson got his. Not only did the Athletics beat him but they knocked him out.

The Pirates and the Cubs showed good fellowship. They split the first double header.

The real test of strength begins today when the east-west series start.

The Indians certainly are F. O. P. (full of pep). They tamed the Tigers again.

What the New York clubs did. The Yanks shut out the Red Sox. The Giants were beaten by the Braves.

Properly indignant.

(enthusiastically) "Yes, father, I have fully made up my mind to adopt music as a career. I feel it is the only one in which my soul can find its full expansion." Father indignantly—"Very well, sir, if you will persist in your evil course, instead of following your father in an honest hardware business, let me tell you that, when you have reached the height of your ambition, you needn't come playing before my door expecting to get any coppers."—London Mail.

the Lake Katrine Hall. Dr. Wyckoff preached an excellent sermon in spite of his cold, which made speaking very difficult.

Myron J. Boice spent the week end with friends at Wittenberg.

Miss Emily Burnett, district superintendent, visited the school at Lake Katrine on Monday.

Eleanor J. Shaw visited Miss Alberta Shultz at Wittenberg on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Murphy and daughter of New York city visited Mrs. Murphy's sister, Mrs. C. D. Dismond, on Sunday.

A very interesting home department meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Buchholz on Thursday afternoon. After the devotional meeting was held a quilt was joined and refreshments were served.

Marion Kingman, who has been visiting her cousin at Lake Katrine, returned to her home last week.

A bee was held at the Grange Hall on Saturday afternoon and considerable clearing up was done on the grounds.

An illustrated lecture will be given at the Grange Hall on Saturday evening. The lecturer will be Mr. Hare, who has recently returned from Europe on a furlough. The pictures will represent scenes of the war in Europe, as well as scenes in Mexico with illustrations of Villa, etc. Mr. Hare has been taking pictures for Leslie's magazine and is thoroughly familiar with his subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Crane spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hester have rented Dr. Betts' camp for the summer.

Mrs. H. W. Davis and children spent several days with Mrs. Davis's sister at Katrine.

Everything is in readiness for the supper which will be held at the Grange Hall this evening. Minstrels will be given by the Kingston Y. M. C. A. and dancing will follow.

Mrs. Clinton Carle and children expect to visit Mrs. Carle's mother and father at East Kingston this week.

Prof. and Mrs. Myron J. Michael rode through Lake Katrine on Sunday and called on Mrs. H. M. Ferguson.

Turkish Royal Households.

There is no sultana of Turkey. It has not for centuries been the custom of the sultans of Turkey to contract regular marriages. The sultan designates from the inmates of the harem a number—nowadays very limited—of women who are called "Kadins," or full wives; this title is only given, however, after a child has been born to the sultan. All children born to the harem, whether their mothers are free or slaves, are legitimate and of equal lineage.
